WIFE KILLED, 8 INJURED BY BOMB BLAST

Package Disguised as Belated Christmas Gift
Carries Death

NO CLEW TO ASSASSIN

Three of Injured in Serious Condition as Result of Tragedy

Seat Pleasant, Md. — (AP) — A deadly bomb in the gay and innocent guise of a belated Christmas gift brought swift death to a young wife and severe injuries to a group of relatives who had gathered for a family New Year party and left but scant clues for the guidance of the police, searching today for some trace of the perpetrator.

The dead woman was Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, 18, married last June to Herman Brady, a farmer of Jittchellville. The injured numbered eight and included the girl's mother, Mrs. John Hall, who is expected to recover, her grandmother, six brothers and sisters, three of whom are in a serious condition, and the son of a neighbor, whose hurts were slight.

The tragedy took place shortly after breakfast yesterday. The package was delivered to the Hall home by Leslie Hall, who is in a serious condition and by the neighbor's son, and Mrs. Brady eagerly tore off the Yuletide wrappings while members of the family clustered closely about her. Suddenly it exploded. Mrs. Brady died 20 minutes after being received at a Washington hospital.

The explosion was heard from some distance and neighbors came quickly to the scene. The injured were rushed to hospitals in Washington, a few miles away.

MATE IS ABSENT
Neither the dead woman's husband nor her father were present at the time, the former was searching for a house in which they might start housekeeping, while the latter was at work in a cemetery some distance away. Upon being told of the catastrophe they rushed into Washington and hurriedly returned from hospital to hospital to locate the members of the family.

The sinister package was delivered on Sunday, mistakenly, at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. John Buckley, who found it on her porch. She was unable to determine at once the identity of Mrs. Brady, to whom it was addressed, but yesterday she learned where the woman might be found and when young Leslie and his friend passed the house she gave it to them to deliver. For two days it had been in her home, with her children playing in the same room.

The bomb was believed to have contained dynamite, about which had been packed in pieces of metal. Bits of the wrapping paper were found in the wreckage of the Hall home, which was badly damaged, but these, the police said, were of little assistance in running down the responsible person.

Brady told the police that he and his bride had made their marriage known only a few days before, and that the girl's family had approved. He said he had no enemy, but that this person had not the intelligence to construct the bomb. The latter's name was not made public.

The Washington Post said today that police intend questioning a rejected suitor of Mrs. Brady. His name was not given, but he was described as a man in middle life, an individual of highly inflammable temper, and known to be familiar with dynamite and its uses.

According to the Post, he proposed to Mrs. Brady two years ago and was refused.

Widow, Once Servant, Is Mistress Of Big Mansion

Port Chester, N. Y. — (AP) — In a rambling, gabled old mansion where for 17 years she served as chambermaid and in which her brother still is the butler, a middle-aged Czech-Slovakian immigrant reigned today as mistress and possibly sole owner.

She is the former Anna Mary Schels who two years ago became the fourth wife of her employer, Frank W. Savin.

Savin died Tuesday after an appendicitis operation. His will has not yet been filed. Among the heirs are his son and daughter and two adopted children, but presumably his widow will be one of the principal beneficiaries.

The size of the estate has been variously estimated all the way from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000.

"Twenty million dollars would be far too much, I think," the widow said today. "Five million would be nearer right."

When he retired, Savin sold his seat on the stock exchange for which he had paid $5,000 thirty years before for $475,000.

With the house of towers and gables, the widow today also had at her sole command several automobiles and a staff of servants, of which her brother, Joseph Schels, the butler, is the head.

Arriba Whore of New Haven, Conn., said to have been a great beauty. They were married in 1871, and she obtained a legal separation in 1898. They have two children.

His second wife was Mrs. Sarah Hamilton West. She died in 1911. The third Mrs. Savin was like the first, a servant in the house. She was Mrs. Sarah M. Trussell, Savin's housekeeper and both before and after her marriage she had supervision over the household tasks of her successor.

Before his third wife died, Savin adopted her brother-in-law, Charles Ely Monroe, who was then 45 and Muriel Elizabeth Withall, a 4-year-old orphan whom he saw one day in an institution and took a child to his home. Both Monroe and the child left the household when he married for the fourth time.

Last May a man who had assumed the name of Walter W. Hayden died in Omaha. He was identified as Christian by his widow, Mrs. Lavinia Christian. He had only $3,000 in cash with him at the time. At the time of his death, he was a resident of the city of Omaha.

After Christian's death here his identity was revealed. The world held that it learned that Smith and other detectives received a "hot tip" that the fortune which vanished from the brokerage offices of Day and Heaton when Christian disappeared from New York, was cached by him somewhere near his comfortable Mexican home when he lived in a seclusion.

Smith, the newspaper said, will search and explore around the hacienda until he finds the missing things, or exhausts all possibilities of finding them.

Christian, a mystery man in life while he served the brokerage firm as treasurer, kept his secrets in a tight hold. His wife, Mrs. Lavinia Christian, has never been found.

SEEK FORTUNE DEAD BROKER STOWED AWAY

Trail Found by Detectives
May Lead to Recovery of Stolen Money

New York. — (AP) — A trail which is expected to lead to a large sum of money George Christian, fugitive broker, is believed to have hidden somewhere in Mexico before he died in Omaha, Neb., last May 15, has been found, it was said today at the office here of a detective agency which has been searching for it.

The private secretary of Ervin J. Smith, head of the agency which has sought Christian for several years and finally found him in San Antonio, Texas, only to have him escape again after being freed on bond, said today that Mr. Smith was in Mexico just across the border from an American city investigating a "hot tip" that Christian's missing funds would be found there.

Smith, a member of the brokerage firm of Day and Heaton which failed for $2,400,000 in 1924, disappeared after the failure for which he was said to have been responsible and eluded a nation-wide search. Smith arrested him in San Antonio last spring and returned him to Trenton, N. J., where he was held in $5,000 bail on charges of using the mail to defraud. Then he disappeared again.

Ask Land Condemnation For Flood Control Plan

Attorney General Urged to Get Flowage Rights to 126,000 Acres

Washington. — (AP) — The war department has asked the attorney general to institute immediately condemnation proceedings to acquire for the government flowage rights to 126,000 acres of land in Missouri, which are to be used in the development of Mississippi flood control.

Secretary Hurley said today that the department was anxious to have established a basis of valuation for this land, which lies in Mississippi and New Madrid counties in Missouri, between New Madrid and Dicks Point.

Efforts to secure the land by negotiation were unsuccessful, the secretary said. The government is to pay only for flowage rights and any damages which may be expected to result from the new levee construction in the area.

The war department, Mr. Hurley explained, is anxious to expedite its flood control work in this area and is hopeful that the condemnation proceedings will enable it to proceed in the near future. All of the land to be condemned will lie within the new levee line.

A total of 622 tracts are involved in the condemnation, which is to be handled by the office of the United States district attorney for Eastern Missouri. A few tracts, Mr. Hurley said, were acquired by negotiation but the government was unable to establish valuation.

2,700 NAMES ON THIRD PETITION FOR CITY MANAGER

Documents Filed With City
Clerk Expected to Reach
Council Tonight

Petitions for adoption of city manager government containing approximately 2,700 signatures were filed today with Carl J. Becker, city clerk, with the expectation that they would be certified to the common council at its meeting tonight.

Two previous petitions circulated by the city manager campaign committee have been rejected by Mr. Becker on advice of A. C. Boeser, city attorney. Mr. Boeser contended that omission of certain words and phrases had made them inadequate.

The petitions filed today, however, have been drafted to conform with all the specifications laid down by the city attorney and no more difficulty is anticipated.

Although the council was asked to vote on the offer of the Van Nortwick residence as a home for crippled children before Jan. 2, the chairman of the finance committee said there will be no report on the matter at tonight's meeting. The finance committee, to which the matter was referred, is waiting for a visit from an inspector from the state highway commission, who has scheduled a trip to Appleton shortly after the first of the year. In the meantime, the building inspector, John N. Welland, the industrial commission inspector would take on the use of the Van Nortwick place as a school for crippled children. A more definite expression of opinion is being awaited by the finance committee before the matter is presented to the council for action.

HUNT PLANE REPORTED DOWN NEAR OHIO ISLAND

Sandusky, Ohio. — (AP) — A search both by air and water was organized today to investigate a report that a plane fell last night after dropping a flare over Johnson's island, four miles out in Sandusky bay.

Coast guardsmen were dispatched to reach the island shortly after the report was received, but a thin layer of ice blocked their flat bottomed boat. They were to make another effort today and in addition Sheriff John W. Parker ordered an airplane to take off at daybreak.

Johnson's island, which is uninhabited, was watched with binoculars for signal lights in the event the flares might have come down safely.

The supposed crash was reported by Patrolman Ronald Bravard and sustained by a number of other persons. They agreed that an east-bound plane dropped a flare as it passed over the island, then the motor stopped and the landing lights disappeared.

Two Killed As Bus Runs Off Highway

Richmond, Ind. — (AP) — Two persons were killed and several were injured when a motor bus ran off a road 15 miles east of here early this morning.

The dead are Thomas Carney, 45, Alexandria, Ind., and Esther Masters, 59, of Connersville, Ind.

The driver, W. R. Spratt, of Indianapolis, was cut about the face and body was taken to a hospital here in an unconscious condition.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. It is believed that the bright lights of a westbound machine caused the bus driver to swerve off the road into the ditch.

The impact buried the front end of the machine in the side of the embankment. Most of the passengers, asleep at the time of the crash, broke windows of the car to escape. The machine caught fire but the flames were extinguished by the heavy rain which was falling at the time.

The motor bus, operated by the Grayhound Lines, Inc., was bound for St. Louis to Pittsburg. The accident occurred on the national road four miles east of Eaton, Ohio. Several persons on the bus escaped injury.

Spratt was pinned in the wreckage for nearly three hours. When he regained consciousness, he made no statement in regard to the cause of the accident.

HUNT PYROMANIAC WHO FIRED SCHOOLS

Fireman Sees Incendiary
Hurl Bomb but Fails to Identify Him

Oakland, Calif. — (AP) — The destruction by fire of Lyndon H. High school, Oakland's oldest educational unit, and the attempt a few hours later to set fire to Lockwood Junior High school by use of a bomb resulted today in an intensive search for a pyromaniac here.

The incendiary is believed to be the same whose activities have reduced to ashes a dozen schools, churches and public buildings in Contra Costa, Mendocino, Lake and Suisun counties in the last few months. Although he was seen on the night of the school fire, the man who set fire to the steps of the Lockwood school last night, darkness shrouded his features and authorities were without a clue to his identity.

Edward Feltus, San Leandro fireman, returning to his home from the Fremont High school fire, saw a lone soul draw up to the curb in front of the Lockwood school and as the driver hurled a package against the front entrance. The package proved to be a bomb, which exploded, setting the front steps ablaze. Feltus first turned in an alarm and then went in pursuit of the pyromaniac, who escaped.

Fremont High school, built in 1907 at a cost of $100,000, was in 1929 only a small building housing the R. O. T. C. Arsenal, a concrete machine shop and three blacked chimneys remained. The loss was estimated at $500,000 by H. D. Blaisdell, principal.

AGED DIVER HELD FOR BOOZE SALVAGE EFFORTS

Halifax, N. S. — (AP) — Having been under water 5 1/2 hours trying to salvage liquor, William Greigore, 74-year-old diver, was in jail today awaiting a hearing Friday.

Greigore was the only man arrested when city police arrived to assist two inland revenue agents who had a gang attempting to salvage the contents of a sunken motor boat.

The gang dispersed when city police arrived and two cars were seized. Shots were fired during the melee and the agents were severely handled.

Greigore said he had been working under water from 5 p. m. until 2:30 a. m. Tuesday morning, and had been promised $500 for the job.

Confirmation of the explosion and the rescue of the boat was obtained from Roger Baldwin, noted liberal and director of the union and trustee of the fund, who said: "I am not a Communist nor in the confidence of the Communist organization, but a member of the party since I know that Dr. Nearing had been expelled from the central committee three years ago."

In his letter of resignation sent to the Garland fund which gives financial support to liberal and radical organizations, Dr. Nearing said that he planned to devote his time to research and writing.

Possible reasons for his expulsion from the Communist party were seen in the fact that while on the board of the Garland fund he had urged to give aid to the Conference for Progressive Labor action, an organization opposed by the Communist party, and had written a thesis in which he urged the Communist party to deviate from the line of their party agents.

Dr. Nearing's friends say that in recent years he has adopted a more simple mode of life, wearing coarse clothes, eating only the best foods and shunning all refinements of modern living.

He held a professorship at the Wharton School of Economics at the University of Pennsylvania from 1904 until 1925 when he was expelled because of his radical activities.

Dr. Nearing had been expelled from the position to the faculty of Toledo university at Toledo, Ohio.

Industrial Alcohol Leaks Greatest Dry Problem

PERMIT PLAN IS SCANDAL, BORAH SAYS

All Factions Agree That Diversion of Alcohol Is Outstanding Issue

Washington—(AP)—Industrial alcohol leaks are regarded by President Hoover's Law Enforcement commission and congressional dry leaders as prohibition's most difficult problem.

Out of the whirl of holiday discussion and controversy among the drys, this fact has been agreed upon by all factions. The law enforcement commission has set itself to inquiring into the situation but the preliminary report of the commission to congress will not touch upon it.

Described by Senator Borah of Idaho, as a "scandal," the administration of the permit system whereby industrial alcohol is distributed to business is due for a thorough investigation and already rumors of grave disclosures in this inquiry have been heard.

Senator Jones of Washington, administration spokesman for the drys, said in a statement last night after several conferences with members of the law enforcement commission: "All seem to view the industrial alcohol situation as the most difficult one to solve properly, as well as one of the most important phases of prohibition enforcement. In working this out the commission should shield no individual and no line of business."

CAPPER ASKS PROBE
Senator Capper of Kansas, another Republican dry leader, also has called for a thorough investigation of the industrial alcohol system and there is every indication that President Hoover shares in the view that this problem is one demanding an overhauling.

Administration of the industrial alcohol permits comes under the treasury department and more particularly under Assistant Secretary Lowman and Prohibition Director Moran. In his reorganization of the prohibition enforcement machinery, Mr. Hoover has proposed to continue this phase of prohibition in the treasury.

Assurance was given by Senator Jones that the law enforcement commission would complete its study of prohibition before July 1 and that the commission has agreed unanimously not to pass judgment upon the "wisdom or unwisdom" of the eighteenth amendment itself.

The Washington senators divided the commission's work into two phases—prohibition enforcement and law enforcement—generally "with several problems in each phase."

"I have conferred with several members of the commission," said Senator Jones. "I am glad to learn that the commission is unanimous that the wisdom or unwisdom of the eighteenth amendment is not involved in their work; that it is a part of the constitution and that the function of the commission is to devise the best means possible for its enforcement."

"I find that an important report has already been given to the president by the joint committee sought by the president as soon as created and ready for work. Other reports will be ready soon."

PRINCESS READY TO DEPART FOR ITALY

Belgian Royal Party Will Leave Brussels Tomorrow for Wedding

Brussels—(AP)—Princess Marie Jose will leave this capital tomorrow for Rome, where on Jan. 8, next Wednesday, she will become the bride of Humbert, prince of Piedmont and heir to the Italian throne.

She will be accompanied on the special train which will carry her across France and Italy by her father, King Albert, and her mother, Queen Elizabeth. High government dignitaries and those who will serve her attendants at the wedding.

Extraordinary precautions will be taken over the entire route to be traveled by the train to prevent any untoward incident. An attempt was made recently to assassinate the groom when he visited Brussels to announce his betrothal and since several conspiracies against lives of the Belgian royals and Italian dignitaries have been uncovered.

The princess, who is the youngest of three children of the Belgian royal pair and is but 23 years old, yesterday took leave of the personnel of the royal house. Each member was presented with the princess' photograph and an autograph inscription signed "Marie Jose."

Both princess and the household were moved by the heartrending event had known the other for many years and few eyes remained dry during the half hour interview.

The presidents of the senate and house of deputies arranged to meet the princess today, bringing her gifts and bidding her farewell.

Only 118 days until the trout fishing season opens, local anglers have figured out. The trout season will open at midnight May 1. Several already are making their own flies.

SIMPLE SERVICES FOR CHARLES TAFT

Private Services Precede Rites at Christ Church in Cincinnati

Cincinnati—(AP)—The simplicity that ruled the life of Charles P. Taft, philanthropist, newspaper publisher, politician and business man, who died Tuesday night at the age of 88, was reflected in death as his body was laid to rest today.

Although city and county officials planned to attend the services at Christ church in a body, and many organizations of which he was a member designated honorary pallbearers, only the customary rites of the Episcopal church were arranged in keeping with Cincinnati's memory of Mr. Taft as a kindly and until a few years ago, a familiar figure on the streets.

A selection by the Herdman string quartet of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, one of the many beneficiaries of the millions given away by Mr. Taft, was the single addition to the regular Episcopal services conducted by the Rev. Frank H. Nelson, rector of Christ church and friend of the philanthropist for many years.

Like the Taft home, just a few blocks away, Christ church stands in the old financial district amid factories, stores and department houses. Mr. Taft was one of the city's few wealthy men who refused to move from the district when its mansions were swallowed up by business firms.

Private services at the home preceded the public rites at the church, after which the funeral procession was to go to Spring Grove cemetery, where burial ceremonies were private.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, half brother of Charles, and his wife arrived from Washington this morning to attend the services. Governor Myers Cooper also was expected to come to Columbus.

Tributes were pouring in at the Taft home today from prominent men over the world, but they were not made public. Civic leaders announced they would formulate plans for a public memorial.

Plans for an inside aerator for the city pumping station and filtration plant were discussed by the water commission Tuesday afternoon and it was decided to advertise for bids. The aerator will be constructed according to a sketch of A. J. Hall, plant superintendent.

A water main on W. Prospect avenue will be moved if necessary for installation of the telephone cable on written authorization of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. guaranteeing costs of such work.

Reports of the accountant and bacteriologist for November were accepted.

ST. LAWRENCE CANAL PLAN IS CRITICIZED

Montreal—(AP)—The St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme is criticized as unnecessary and uneconomical by Henry Holgate and J. A. Jamieson, Montreal engineers, who have investigated at the request of the Montreal Board of Trade. The engineers urge improvement in the existing canal system which they find is used to only 65 per cent of capacity.

GENERAL WEATHER
Generally fair weather has prevailed over most of the country during the past 48 hours, except that showers occurred in the lower lakes and middle Mississippi Valley and snow flurries in the upper Missouri Valley. Low pressure over the Ohio Valley is causing cloudy and unsettled in the northeastern portions of the country, but it is clear in the west, due to high pressure over the north Pacific coast. Temperatures are falling this morning in the lake region and upper Mississippi Valley, due to high pressure over the Canadian northwest, with sub-zero weather reported from many Canadian stations. Generally fair and colder is expected in this section tonight and Friday, with a minimum tonight between 10 and 15 degrees.

Whalen Seeks Clues in Chicago

Grover Whalen, New York's police commissioner, went to Chicago in an effort to trace clues in the alleged "contract murder" of Frankie Yale, and Frank Marlow, New York racketeers. He is shown here at the left, discussing the case with Chicago's coroner, Herman Lundeen. A Chicago gangster, New York police say, was brought to New York under contract to kill the two racketeers.

French Chambermaids In Revolt—Demand Changes

Paris—(AP)—Parisian "femmes de menage"—or, in English, chambermaids—are in revolt.

Repeating yesterday by the hundreds from apartments great and small to the left bank of the Seine they drew up a bill of rights for presentation to the households they serve. It reads:

"We, the Union of the Femme de Menage of Paris, have the honor to announce to you our ultimate and unalterable decisions taken in general assembly.

"From now on we must have a fixed wage, not depending on the whim and humor of our employers. The tip, being a varying amount depending on change, should be fixed.

"From Jan. 1, we refused to polish as well as to climb up ladders for the purpose of shining windowpanes and keeping them in condition.

"We further ask a respite for 15 minutes each morning, no deduction to be made from wages in consequence.

"We ask for double pay Sundays and holidays and not to have pay arbitrarily deducted for uniforms.

"After big dinners and receptions we ask for a supplement for polishing the glasses and shining the silver."

The ultimatum is signed by three comrades, leaders of the union, Julie, Marie and Jeanne.

The regular wage of these maids of all work in Paris is twelve to sixteen dollars a month. In the provincial towns, it is ten dollars a month; in the country, less. Except in Paris, their wages are never fixed. It is not unusual in the provinces for the workday to begin at half past five in the morning and last to nine, ten and eleven at night.

Richard Halliburton's new book, "New Worlds to Conquer" is another of the new books at the local library. The qualities that have made his earlier works number his readers by the hundreds of thousands are found in this new volume, plus a more mature understanding of the life he sees and the adventures that come his way. The book is a knapsack full of the true adventurer's gold, dreams brought to reality by the alchemy of courage and daring.

Mr. Halliburton writes with good appreciation, a strong feeling for the dramatic, and sense of humor that never fails.

A third new and fascinating book in circulation now is "Carl Kelsey's Africa" by Mary L. Jobe Akley. It is the account of the Akley-Eastman-Pomeroy African Hall expedition of the American Museum of Natural History. It pictures the struggle of the great game herds of Africa against the onrush of civilization, the transformation of the arid plain with the coming of the life-giving rains, the concrete problems that confront the safari manager, and the final preparation for the actual making of the museum groups.

New children's books include "Noisy Nora" by Hugh Lofting and "The Runaway Sardinia" by Emma L. Brock. Children will chuckle with delight over the amusing tale of "Noisy Nora" and parents will bless Mr. Lofting for investing a wide-spread bad habit with much fun while achieving its correction. Noisy Nora had shocked table manners, not to be corrected until she was sent to Top Meadow where everything was so still she came to realize how much noise she made while eating. The little pink book is charmingly designed and decorated, and is done in hand lettering.

Emma Brock's book is a picture book portraying the every day life of a Breton fishing village. There is an understanding of child nature behind the pictures and story of this book.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM ATTRACTS OVER 400 PERSONS WEDNESDAY

Athletic Exhibitions and Hobby Show Feature Open House

More than 400 persons attended the annual open house party at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday afternoon and were entertained by athletic exhibitions and a musical program. The latter was held in the lobby of the building with Tom Temple's orchestra furnishing entertainment.

The athletic exhibits were held in the association gymnasium, beginning at 2:30. The first exhibit was a dumbbell drill by the Friendly Indian club of the boys department. This was followed by a series of group games.

Exercises on the horse were next shown by the Pioneer club gym classes, and were followed by a basketball game between the leaders in the two leagues. The evening class team composed of H. Branchford, E. Becker, Don Johnson, Peterson, Ebert, Hickey, Belknap and J. Greer defeated the afternoon class of C. Caver, W. Cahill, C. Dean, B. Dutcher, C. Packard, R. Merrifield, R. Losselyoung and E. Hensel, 15 and 10. The classes were under direction of Gilbert Green, assistant in the physical education department.

Three boxing bouts by members of the class under direction of Earl Rogers followed. The first bout was between Joe Verrier and Art Zerbel, the second between Bob Frueders and Herbert Zimcars and the third between Leo Tilly and Wellington Scott. No decisions were made.

An archery exhibition by members of the archery class being organized through cooperation of the Y. M. C. A. followed the boxing bouts. Harold Heller, organizer of the class, Roger Russell and Dr. R. V. Landis were the archers.

SHOW GYMNASIICS
A gymnastic exhibit and a basketball game completed the gymnasium program. In the former exhibit Richard, Robert and James Nevel and Howard Ruth went through several stunts, assisted by a clown, Col. Limberger, impersonated by Robert Carney.

The basketball game featured the Hi-Y team and the Knack Sport shop five, the Hi-Y's winning easily, 18 and 6. Members of the Hi-Y team were Lonsdorf, Reeve, Foote, Zimcars and Thompson; of the Sport Shop five, Looze, Van Ryzin, Davis, Klippstein, Burns and Jones.

Diving exhibits and novelty races featured the exhibition in the pool. The races included a balloon race, candle race and a race in which gold fish were liberated in the pool and swimmers caught them. The diving exhibits were given by Leslie Crabbe, Wally Klein, Al Woeiler and Robert Carney. The exhibit was in charge of George Klein.

The annual hobby show of the boys department was the center of interest in the assembly rooms of the building on the second floor. Exhibits were divided into three classes, handicraft, miscellaneous collections and natural history collections.

First prize in the handicraft division went to Roger Russell, who entered two boats, one a sail boat, the other a motor boat. The natural history collection prize was awarded Gordon Watts for a collection of rocks which he has made over a period of several years. The miscellaneous collection prize was awarded Newman Johns, who displayed a collection of 300 cigar bands, 50 of which recently were sent him from Spain by Fred R. Zimmerman former governor.

GIRL DISAPPEARS AND WARRANTS ARE ISSUED FOR PAIR

Believe Man and Wife Responsible for New London Girl's Absence

Warrants were issued Thursday morning by Stanley A. Stahl, district attorney, for Mr. and Mrs. William Alvord, formerly of New London, on charges of enticing Miss Dorothy Fuerst, 16, from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuerst at New London. The warrants were issued on complaint of the girl's father and have been turned over to Sheriff Fred W. Giese who is conducting a search for the girl and the Alvords.

The girl left her home at New London last Sunday morning in company with the Alvords. No contact was felt until Tuesday morning when her mother found a note under the pillow on her daughter's bed which asserted that she did not intend to return.

When the girl left New London she was going to Tomah to visit at the home of Mrs. Alvord's mother. Investigation at Tomah revealed that the party never reached that city.

Alvord, an employee at the Edison Wood Products company, had been laid off several days ago but was supposed to be back at work Monday. The Alvords came to New London only a few months ago. The party left the city in a rented touring car which has not yet been returned.

Oconto And Wolf Rivers Offer Good Trout Waters

By B. A. CLAFLIN
In this article I will point out some of the trout waters of Wisconsin which I know from personal experience to be as good as any we yet have in the state. But I want to add that they should be better from now on inasmuch as the raising of young trout to a good size before liberation seems to have become a recognized possibility by the state, and is actually being carried out.

None of us wants fishing such as we enjoyed years ago. Of course not! Education has changed the trend of the angler's thoughts into better channels. But, those of us who love the game from the viewpoint of a fly-caster, feel that we are entitled to at least a few of the speckled beauties as a reward for the long trips we make in quest of them; and for the hardships we undergo in our efforts to capture them.

The Oconto river, fished from any one of a dozen different starting points, will yield a fair catch of trout—mostly rainbows—to the angler who possesses the requisite skill. The Wolf river likewise is good. And it will be good so long as it remains untrammelled by power dams. But I would like to hazard a guess as to how long that will be. I say one year at most. Best results will be had on this stream if it is fished early in the season. I have usually been able, however, to take some good ones later on during the warmer weather by using dry flies. By later on, I mean when the "bloom" is on the lakes and other sluggish waters.

The Evergreen and its north branch is fairly good at all times. But you must be satisfied long before your creel is full.

It is far from what it was some years ago when I fished it down from Camp 12 and landed—I almost stated the number I took that hot, muggy Fourth of July. Almost, but not quite. To do so would be unethical. But it was plenty, and they were all good fish.

One of the best streams I know of is the Pine river. About the best way to fish it is to float it with a boat. Farther up is Riley's creek, a favorite water of Bob Becker and other well known anglers. Still farther up you hit the Popple. But this is one of the streams which must be fished real early—when the water is yet unpleasant, if you want good sized fish. Later on the fish run up toward the colder waters and that causes many anglers to condemn this really good stream.

Hayward Creek, in Vilas and farther south, the Hunting river and the Eau Claire, in Langlade, are good. The Prairie, Comet, Iola and Emmons Creek, with their numerous branches are all good. In the last three named the Brown trout predominates.

Then there is the Badley Brook south of the Waupaca chain of lakes. This stream yields annually some big specimens of the Fario, better known as Brown trout. This fish is best taken on small patterns of dry flies. In quest of these fish you should use a nine-foot tapered leader.

CONTINUE PLANS TO BURY PAISLEY DEAD

Paisley, Scotland—(AP)—This tragedy-stricken town was engaged today in the task of planning funerals for the victims of Tuesday's fire panic.

There were a few private funerals today but nearly seventy other funerals were being arranged for tomorrow when special services will be held in Paisley churches. There will be double or triple funerals in five families which lost two or more children.

Most of the injured children are on the road to recovery and 14 have been sent home from the hospital. Of the 22 remaining in the hospital only two were in a serious condition.

Detroit Police Officer Shot Down By Gangsters

STRAY BULLET MAY BE FATAL TO YOUNG GIRL

Head of Crime and Bomb Squad Expected to Recover from 4 Wounds

Detroit—(AP)—Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the crime and bomb squad of the Detroit police department, was shot four times and seriously wounded shortly after 8 o'clock a. m. today by a group of men in a large black sedan who drove beside the inspector's car on Copeland near Jefferson-ave and fired at him. An 11-year-old girl, struck by one of the bullets, was said to be dying.

The inspector is known to have been a marked man in the city's underworld since the organization of the crime and bomb squad two years ago. The squad was organized to rid the city of racketeers and hijackers.

The wounded girl is Lois Bartlett, of 1427 Hack-ave, who was in the head and arm. Receiving hospital attaches reported her to be dying.

Inspector Garvin's condition was said to be serious but not critical. He was able to give police details of the shooting.

Inspector Garvin, who is 40 years old, has been with the police department since 1914 and has held the rank of inspector since September 1927, when the crime and bomb squad was formed. He has had eleven meritorious mentions and five citations for distinguished service.

IS STATE WITNESS
Garvin was to have appeared as a state witness this morning in the trial of Martin Cohn, proprietor of the Study club, who is charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the fire at that cabaret Sept. 20 in which 23 persons lost their lives.

His bed in Receiving Hospital Garvin said:
"This car came up behind me. I swung over so the driver could pass, but he got beside me for a few feet. Then there was the crack of a pistol and the bullet hit me in the neck."

"I dropped behind the wheel of the car and felt it bump over the curb and then I got hit some more. I didn't try to get out of the car until some policemen came. The other car went away toward Jefferson-ave, but I didn't see it. I haven't any idea how many men were in the car, or what kind of a car it was."

Inspector Garvin has been prominently associated with nearly every major crime investigation in Detroit during the past two years. Included in his exploits was the investigation carried on into the activities of the Purple Gang, an organization which was prominent in the cleaners' and dyers' war of two years ago as well as rum-running, hi-jacking and similar activities.

The Bartlett girl was on her way to school. She came to Detroit six months ago with her family from Muncie, Ind. Her father, Murray Bartlett, is an employee in an automobile plant.

She said she saw the two cars come close together, heard the shots and then remembered nothing after she was struck.

STATE EXPERTS WILL VIEW CULVERTS AGAIN
The Outagamie-co highway committee has been informed by the state highway commission that it will again conduct culvert inspections during 1930 under the plan inaugurated in 1929. A state expert, at the request of individual counties, visits factories where the culverts are made and inspects them before they are sent out. Poorly made culverts are rejected. The cost of this service to the county is $2 per ton. The state commission points out that the expert is sent out only at the county's request. The plan worked out very well during the last year, the state points out, and an effort is being made to have more counties take advantage of the plan in 1930.

"TEXAS RANGER" PAYS FINE OF $25 AND COSTS
Fred Bartman, 333 N. Locust-st., was fined $25 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday morning when he pleaded guilty of resisting an officer. Bartman was arrested by Sergeant Mathew McGinnis about 9 o'clock Tuesday evening when he started celebrating the New Year in too boisterous a manner. Bartman insisted that he was connected with the Texas Rangers and that if Officer McGinnis arrested him he certainly would get revenge by bringing up some of his "buddies" and shooting up the entire police force. Sergeant Mathew McGinnis led to use force to take Bartman to the station and even then it was necessary for the sergeant to get assistance before Bartman was safely escorted in a cell.

4 ARE KILLED IN NEW YEAR CRASHES THROUGHOUT STATE

Holiday Excursions, Warm Weather Tend to Increase Toll

Milwaukee—(AP)—The names of at least four persons today headed the New Year's accident death list. Holiday excursions which drew thousands to the country and warm weather combined to increase the toll. The dead are: Mary Hintz, 19, Newburg; Benjamin Mosher, 22, Milwaukee; Edward Lee, 29, De Pere; and Gilbert Fischer, 21.

Miss Hintz was killed near West Bend. She was riding in a car with Charles Peter, 20, of West Bend, who was probably fatally injured in the accident which occurred when their car skidded and turned over two miles outside West Bend.

Mosher died from injuries received when he was struck by a car in Milwaukee New Year's day.

His skull fractured, Lee died early Wednesday morning in a Green Bay hospital. Lee was injured when the car he was driving spun in a misadventure at a curve on Highway 41 near St. Joseph's orphanage. The accident occurred when a machine driven by Leo McLaughlin, De Pere, skidded on the curve and crashed into Lee's car. The car driven by McLaughlin was owned by Mike Wobosel, De Pere, who was cut off by flying glass.

Miss Rose Marie Carney, 21, Green Bay, who was riding with Lee, suffered a fractured hip and a broken shoulder. Francis Goumons, 24, De Pere, another occupant of Lee's machine, received minor injuries. Wobosel was the only one in the other car to be injured, although there were three other persons with him. There were six persons in Lee's car.

Fischer, in a misadventure while driving to call for his fiancée to take her to church about 8:30 Wednesday morning, was hurled from his coupe with such force that his body, in striking a two-inch metal street signpost, broke it off at the base. His chest was crushed and he died on the way to the hospital. William Gilson, Green Bay, was the driver of the other car in this accident.

COLDER WEATHER IS PREDICTED FRIDAY

Ideal weather conditions prevailed in this vicinity on New Year's day. Skies were partly cloudy and moderate temperatures prevailed. Cloudy skies with a drop in temperature is on the weather menu for this vicinity for the next 24 hours, according to the weatherman.

Winds are shifting in the west and northwest, which is a fair indication that cooler weather is on its way. At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the thermometer registered 19 degrees above zero, while at noon the mercury recorded 30 degrees above zero.

FILIPINOES AT CAPITAL

Discarded Yule Trees Used As Road Markers

Menominee, Mich.—(AP)—Discarded Christmas trees, lying in the class with used razor blades, have found a place in the sun. Instead of being total losses, Menominee men today were going from door to door collecting Yule trees to be used as road markers.
For 49 years, Door County, Wis., persons and inhabitants of Washington island have traded with Menominee merchants. Door-co is a peninsula separated by Green Bay from Menominee. The bay is frozen over and up-and-down Menominee men and women have made the trip across the ice. The trip across the ice required several hours. Often an unexpected blizzard pops up and travelers are likely to lose their directions. So, the Menominee merchants said, "We'll protect our prospective customers by marking their route." Christmas trees are collected and stuck in holes in the ice.
In the old days, pioneers recall, the trip across the ice was accompanied by dangers. Vanished since the pines are marked. A "half-way" house was usually constructed about 12 miles out from Surgeon Bay, Wis., east of here on the peninsula. Stages ran regularly from Menominee to Surgeon Bay and stopped overnight at the house. While the structure was temporary, it was outfitted with all comforts. There were sleeping rooms, a bar, tables where travelers played poker, and a shed for horses. When blizzards broke, travelers were assured of a haven. Then when the first signs of spring forecast the breakup of the ice, the house was dismantled and taken ashore.
Today, the tree marked "highways" may be traversed by automobiles and trucks in a few hours. Fishermen and hunters living on the Door-co peninsula, make their trips to Menominee and return the same day. The half-way inn is gone, and the tree-flanked roadway across brings the city hours closer to the outposts of Wisconsin's civilization.

U. S. NO LONGER AFRAID OF "RED" AGITATOR'S WORK

Release of Communists by Hoover Reveals Government's Attitude

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—As far as the White House and the State Department are concerned, the open season on the Reds seems to be over.

Even the Department of Labor appears to have adopted a more liberal policy in considering the admission or deportation of persons holding radical political beliefs.

Various states and municipalities enjoy dragging Communists to jail as soon as they open their mouths, often imprisoning them for long terms, but Washington no longer sets the example.

ALARMING THE PATRIOTS
This fear has been giving the professional super-patriots here a pain in the neck. For the first time they are in the same position as the Reds—that is, they become a group of malcontents dissatisfied with the government. In order to raise money they must sell the idea that President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson are as patriotic as they are.

Hoover in his time has hollered as loudly about the "Bolshevik menace" as anyone, but the other day when he had 20 or 40 young folks who had staged a Communist demonstration near the White House turned loose by the police he indicated a change of policy to such demonstrations. Cal Coolidge sat in the White House time and again when participants in the show, without ever a word.

Of course, the thing was overdone. In announcing the presidential attitude, Secretary George Akeron, with his customary air of unctuous superiority, felt called upon to lower the White House dignity with contemptuous references to "disloyalty" and "cheap martyrdom." The poor nannies at the jail undoubtedly thrilled at the thought that they were considered worthy of this outburst. Nevertheless, if there are no more such parades near the White House it will indicate that the Communists are disappointed at being neither jailed nor fined. In the past they have often put the White House reporters and photographers in their debt by enlivening dull days.

The more liberal attitude which has become apparent here doesn't mean that the government is getting soft or that the country is going to the dogs. It seems rather to mean that Hoover and Stimson are tired of having the country made ridiculous by such actions as gave Secretary of State Kellogg the nickname of "Nervous Nellie."

The decision to admit the Count and Countess Karolyis into the country is the most significant indication to date. The Karolyis are Socialists and Kellogg and his predecessor, Hughes insisted that they mustn't come in. No reason was ever given so everyone assumed it was just because they were Socialists. But it would have looked over so funny, if, after making such a flattering hoop-la-de-do over them, the government had continued to bar the Karolyis for any such reason as that.

In this administration it is likely to be a rare bird who can convince the government that he amounts to enough to be able to undermine our great and glorious institutions once he gets onto American soil. The heads of government appear to have been worrying more about the dangerous meddling activities of super-patriots such as William B. Shearer.

The State Department's willingness to let Dorothy Detzer of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom have a passport without taking an oath to bear arms, its investigation of aggressive activities in this country and the extension of government facilities to the Soviet round-the-world flyers with permission for them to land in Alaska were evidences that things aren't just like they used to be.

But that sizzling noise which you may hear is Washington's little group of paid professional patriots boiling in impotent wrath.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
The first marriage license issued in 1930 was given out Thursday morning by John E. Hanchel, county clerk, to Charles Gehl and Augusta Storch, both of Appleton.

DOLLY'S AUTO TAG HAS "PRECEDENCE" OVER HER RIVAL'S

Washington—(AP)—Mrs. Dolly Gann, official hostess of Vice President Curtis, has obtained 1930 automobile license Number 11.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, her recent opponent over matters of social precedence, will get Number 81.

Speaker Longworth's official car, which Representative Garner, the minority leader, continues to call "our" car, will carry license Number 66.

President and Mrs. Hoover's fleet of official automobiles will have their usual tags ranging from 100 to 110. Thus went official Washington, found it necessary to stand in line today for the first sale of District of Columbia automobile licenses for 1930 and the annual scramble for the much-coveted, low-numbered tags.

Number 1, 2, and 3 went to the three district commissioners. Justices of the supreme court will be assigned tags under 100, with Chief Justice getting Number 50. Embassy and legation cars will get licenses bearing figures ranging between 200 and 500 and members of congress will have the next 250 numbers assigned to them. Usually there are only 1,000 unlettered tags issued, but this year the number has been increased to 10,000.

ONE IS INJURED AS THREE CARS COLLIDE

Machines Figure in Triple Crash on Lake-rd Early Wednesday Morning

One man was injured and three cars were damaged in a collision on Lake-rd near the city limits about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The injured man, William Rubbert, Vermillion, O., who was riding with Frank Rubbert, 819 N. Superior-st., was taken to a physician. He received lacerations about the head and body from flying glass.

Rubbert was driving north on Lake-rd, following a machine driven by George Vanderlinden of this city, when another car operated by an unidentified driver sidwiped the latter's. Rubbert applied his brakes, but due to the slippery pavement swerved into Vanderlinden's car, it was reported.

The other car bore the license number D-75,550, issued to a John McNaughton, Kaukauna, deceased. The machine, smashed into a ditch after sidwiping the other two cars. It's right side was slightly damaged. The front end of Rubbert's car was badly damaged while the rear of Vanderlinden's machine was caved in.

LAKE IS TOO WARM FOR POLAR BEARS' SOCIETY

Milwaukee—(AP)—There was disappointment at the Polar Bear's headquarters today. Lake Michigan is too warm to enjoy swimming!

One of the practices of the club which indulges in winter dips in the lake is a New Year's eve swim as a necessity for retaining one's membership during the following year.

The New Year's swimming party took their dip. The swimmers stayed in 15 minutes.

"But," objected James G. Brazell, president of the Bears, "the air was too darned warm to enjoy swimming."

Membership, it seems, has been dropping off in the club. The Bears pray for a winter.

BOARD EXPECTING NO MOVE IN CORN PRICES

Washington—(AP)—Commenting on Chicago reports that the corn prices decline, Samuel R. McDevie, a member of the board, said today that neither the board nor the Farmers National Grain corporation expected any direct move in regard to the trend of these prices.

McDevie said there was no indication that the level was going to rise or fall unduly and neither the board nor the grain corporation knew what action, if any, circumstances might require.

JUDICIAL BATTLE WILL ECLIPSE ANY IN LAST 20 YEARS

Three Candidates Seek Election to State Supreme Court

Madison—A judicial campaign which for color and activity will eclipse any of the judgeship campaigns in Wisconsin in the last twenty years and will rival in interest the famous Bashford-Barnes campaign of 1908, is promised this spring.

The contestants will be in the field, but the entrance of Attorney Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee, suspended by the Supreme court for "ambulance chasing," promises to force a line-up which will bring many of the Supreme court decisions into review.

The three candidates for the Supreme court judgeship in April are: Chester A. Fowler, Fond du Lac, former Circuit court judge of the Fond du Lac circuit, who was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Supreme bench in 1926 by the death of Justice A. J. Vinje last March. Fowler was one of the four justices who voted to suspend Cannon.

REYNOLDS IN RACE
John W. Reynolds, Green Bay, now completing his second term as attorney general, who long has been identified with the La Follette faction in politics but who announces that "politics" shall not enter his campaign.

Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee, who for years has engaged in a large legal practice in Milwaukee but who last July 2 was suspended from practice by the Supreme court.

Justice C. H. Crownhart of the Supreme court filed a dissenting opinion in the Cannon case claiming there was a lack of evidence on which to base a suspension.

FIRST TO ELECT JUDGES
Wisconsin was one of the first states in the Union to provide for the election of judges. In cases of a vacancy the governor is permitted under the constitution to make a temporary appointment until a judge can be elected. In most instances the man appointed has been approved by the people.

Twenty-two years ago the policy of electing appointed judges was challenged by the late John Barnes in the famous Barnes-Bashford campaign with the result that Barnes was elected and served in the Supreme bench until 1916.

The Bashford-Barnes fight became a lively one and generally is recognized as the hottest judicial campaign staged in Wisconsin. R. M. Bashford Madison, had been appointed to a vacancy on the Supreme bench and was a candidate to succeed himself. Barnes immediately entered the contest, was elected in April, 1908, and took his seat on the bench July 1.

OWEN FIGHT RECALLED
The next important recent upset in judicial contests was staged by Walter C. Owen, former state attorney general. Justice R. D. Marshall had severed on the bench for a quarter of a century. When Owen entered the field there was some complaint that there should be no contest against a sitting judge long in the service.

Many believed that the customs of reelecting sitting judges never should be overturned in the state, but when the results of the election were tabulated Owen had been chosen.

Within recent years contests over places in the Supreme bench have been bitter.

The entrance of Mr. Cannon has thrown a new factor into the judicial contest. The law does not require that a man to be elected Circuit or Supreme court judge must be a lawyer.

CLAIMS HE WAS FORCED TO SIGN $5,000 NOTE

Manitowoc—(AP)—With suit for $5,000 started against his former sweetheart to recover a promissory note he claims she made him sign, Walter Gennrich, druggist, today revealed a 10-year love affair with Emma Schuetz, Sheboygan school teacher.

Gennrich says in his complaint filed in circuit court, that he "kept company" with the school teacher for 10 years. During that time they became engaged, to said, and the teacher asked a five-year postponement of the marriage. Then, he alleged, trouble began. First came quarrels. He said he asked her again to marry him.

In reply, there came a letter from a Sheboygan attorney, he said, threatening a non-two-penny suit and asking a settlement for Miss Schuetz. He went to Sheboygan and the lovers' quarrel was patched up temporarily, he said. Then came a second letter from the lawyer which resulted, Gennrich said, in the signing of the $5,000 note.

Such love, the druggist said, with its financial entanglements, didn't appeal to him, and when the attorney proposed that a "bogus" summons be served on him before his parents in hopes they would advance a part of the $5,000 Gennrich didn't like it. On Sept. 2, however, he said he paid $100 on the note. But now he wants the note cancelled.

IT WASN'T OLSON, BUT HERMSEN GETS LAST LAUGH ANYWAY

"I think I've captured Herman Olson," said Undersecretary Henry Hermesen of Brown-co when he walked into the county jail at Green Bay Wednesday afternoon with a suspect whom he had arrested near the Menominee River Sugar company factory south of Green Bay.

"Haw! Haw!" chirped some of his fellow officers. "That man Olson has been captured 6,000 times and he hasn't been caught yet."

A checkup revealed that while the prisoners closely resembled Olson, it wasn't him. Thursday morning the suspect admitted his name was Albert Becker and that he was deserted from the army at Jefferson barracks, Mo. Becker is being held pending the arrival of U. S. officers who will take him back to Missouri. There is a standing reward of $50 for all deserters and this will go to Hermesen.

"Haw! Haw! Haw!" laughed Hermesen Thursday morning. "He who laughs last, laughs best."

ARRAIGN MOTORIST FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Milwaukee Man Is Charged With Killing Frank Penney, Waupaca-co Farmer

Believed to be the motorist who ran down and killed Frank Penney, Waupaca-co farmer, near Waupaca Sept. 12, Earl J. Meredith, 33, Milwaukee, was arraigned before Justice S. W. Johnson at Waupaca this morning on a charge of manslaughter.

The preliminary hearing was adjourned until Jan. 16, and Meredith was held under $2,500 bond. He expected to furnish the bond this afternoon.

Meredith, head of the Meredith Traffic company, 545 Howard-ave, was arrested in Milwaukee Wednesday by detectives following an investigation of several months. Two bathing suits and the door handle of an automobile were the only clues with which they had to work. Although Meredith denied the allegations, he said he did pass through the Waupaca district Sept. 2.

Meredith was brought back to Waupaca early Thursday morning by Sheriff Arthur Steenbock. Penney, crossing the road with a pail, was struck and run down by an automobile which, as it continued on its way, left behind a door handle and the bathing suits.

Authorities deduced that the bathing suits had been hanging from the window to dry and that the handle of the door was torn from the machine as it brushed Penney's body.

When examination of the bathing suits revealed they had been purchased at a Milwaukee department store, Detective Sergeant William McKenney and Detective John Fridie were assigned to the case. Their investigations finally led them to the home of Meredith.

RECALLED FARMER WITH PAIL
Confronted with the evidence, Meredith recalled that on one of his trips through the county last fall and while traveling at a high rate of speed, he had come upon a farmer who was crossing the road with a pail in his hand.

"All I recollect of the incident," Meredith told the detectives, "is that the man apparently became confused and tried to turn his pail, after having reached the middle of the road."

"I was going about sixty miles an hour and did not look back, having no occasion to do so."

DANCE HALL WRIT STIRS UP MAYOR OF RACINE

Racine—(AP)—When the Racine law firm of Wilbershire and Raumbliatt obtained a temporary injunction restraining a city ruling closing the surf ball room, they accused the city of Mayor William H. Armstrong who said today he would file a complaint with the State Bar association against the lawyers.

The Surf was denied a license by the city because, the mayor said, their advertisements were suggestive and things weren't as they should be for example, the mayor cited, there were alleged bathtub parties, a corny milk contest and a pajama dance.

The injunction, Mayor Armstrong charged, was obtained merely to permit the Surf to operate New Year's eve and yesterday so they could collect profits.

Governor Roosevelt is expected to direct the work of the association representative in getting the relief program into immediate practical service. Surveys already made by American and Porto Rican authorities as well as the Rockefeller foundation will be used in mapping out the program.

RAILROADS SLOW TO ISSUE BONDS FOR FINANCING

Short Term Loans Being Made to Meet Present Corporate Needs

Washington—(AP)—A policy among railroads of deferring long term financing through bond issues until the securities market has improved is indicated by applications filed recently with the Interstate Commerce commission.

Avoiding the bond market a number of roads have turned to short term financing to meet corporate needs, among these the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Erie, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the Louisiana and Arkansas, the Vermont Central, and the Grand Trunk Western.

The application of the Pittsburgh and Western Virginia, approved this week by the commission, said "its officers and directors are of the opinion that it would be unwise at present time to apply for authority to issue additional bonds, since the condition of the money market is such that long-term bonds would have to be sold at a comparatively high interest cost, and that in view of the apparent trend toward lower interest rates it is believed that it would be advantageous to borrow temporarily the $2,000,000 required."

In asking authorization to issue $12,000,000 bonds as security for notes, the Erie described bond market conditions similarly.

"Because of such large expenditures made in 1928 and 1929, the Erie application said, "it is expected that it will soon be necessary for the applicant to do some temporary financing by the issuance of short term notes, to provide it with sufficient cash for its corporate purposes and requirements and to provide it with necessary working capital so as to make practicable the issuance and sale of long term securities on favorable terms."

In actually attempting to sell certificates at competitive bidding, the two subsidiaries of the Candian National—the Vermont Central and the Grand Trunk—received but one bid, which was declared to be unsatisfactory. As a result, these two roads also turned to temporary financing.

Equipment notes being issued by a trust company to a corporation selling the equipment, which is leased to the carrier by the trust company. At the same time other roads are going ahead with their usual financing operations, the Cleveland Union Terminal company being authorized as the final act of the commission in the year of 1929 to issue $18,000,000 of bonds to be guaranteed by the Nickel Plate, the Big Four and the New York Central.

TWO DRASTIC DRY BILLS UP IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston—(AP)—State Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, Democrat, a Congressionalist minister, today filed with the clerk of the house two drastic prohibition bills. The first provided an appropriation of $2,000,000 to enforce the prohibition law with the second would make transportation of a quart or more of liquor "prima facie evidence of intent to sell."

Gov. Frank G. Allen in his message recommending the legislature yesterday told both houses that as long as the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution was on the books, the state's duty was to cooperate in enforcement.

Sawyer specifically assailed a plan to repeal the state enforcement act, an initiative petition which is to come before this session.

"The 'one quart' bill was designed to protect any person who might have on his possession a legally prescribed pint of liquor issued on a physician's permit but to put those who possessed a quart or more in the class of bootleggers."

STATE CHAMBER TO STUDY SUGGESTION OF NATIONAL PARK

Will Investigate Proposal
Concerning Indian Reservation

Madison — The Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce has received and will thoroughly investigate a suggestion that the federal government be petitioned to convert the Menominee Indian reservation of Wisconsin into a national park when this vast tract of northern forest land is no longer needed for its present use.

Acting upon recommendations submitted by the conservation conference held at its annual meeting, the state chamber, through its board of directors, has assigned to its conservation committee the task of studying this proposal.

The idea was given to the conference by Eugene Wengert, former District Attorney of Milwaukee and an active worker for conservation in Wisconsin. Mr. Wengert pointed out the fact that the dwindling Indian population would no doubt, in a limited number of years, result in a breaking up of the Menominee tract of some 250,000 acres.

"When this time comes," Mr. Wengert said, "it would be a splendid thing if some way could be found to have the federal government keep it intact and convert it into a national park. If it were divided among the surviving Indians, most of them, undoubtedly, would quickly sell their respective shares for whatever price they could get. This beautiful area with its scenic Wolf river and other natural attractions would very soon be broken up and lost forever."

"If we are going to conserve park areas for the Mississippi valley and its great population, there is a fine place to start. There is no natural park in this great area of population except in Minnesota. A national park in Wisconsin would become one of the greatest playgrounds of the northern Mississippi valley. This idea has been running through my mind for a long time and I believe that we should begin at once an effort to lay the ground work for such a movement."

In addition to going thoroughly into the park idea, the Chamber's standing committee on conservation will give full cooperation to all organizations working for conservation in Wisconsin. It has in mind support of the programs of the state conservation commission, the Isaac Walton League, Boy Scouts and other bodies interested in such work, and will likewise aid and encourage

FRENCH NAVAL POLICY

Considerable discussion has been caused by the French memorandum on naval policy, as well as by the action of the chamber of deputies in voting approval of the government's program for the construction of 48,000 tons of war vessels during the next four years. The pronouncement regarding naval policy may be regarded as partly political, in the sense that it was a move to strengthen the Tardieu ministry at home. Nevertheless, its implications, as well as its direct statements touching the forthcoming disarmament conference, are important.

France refuses to recognize the potency of the Kellogg-Briand treaty renouncing war as effective without certain guarantees of security. These naturally encompass land as well as sea forces. Unquestionably the continental attitude toward armament is different from the American viewpoint and to some extent different from that of Great Britain. The problems of each are not the same. Great Britain's defense is almost entirely naval, as is that of the United States. Even on the 5-5-3 naval basis as determined at the Washington conference, France may consider herself protected with a large army. If we discard the possibilities of future collision with England or Germany, France's concern must necessarily be over a coalition against her rather than aggression by a particular nation. To meet this contingency she relies upon the coercive clause of the League of Nations covenant and effective action by that organization.

France cannot be criticised for demanding all possible guarantees against war and invasion. She has just gone through an experience which leaves an indelible mark and naturally she places greater emphasis on the realities than upon idealism. It must be admitted in her behalf that world conditions today do not safeguard her or any other nation against war. The world is still armed to the teeth. Most nations are spending more money on preparations for war than they have ever done before. Treaties alone, combined with the moral force of public opinion, cannot restrain belligerents.

All that has been achieved in the direction of peace, and it is very much, leaves a great deal to be done. The actual abolishment of war is the greatest problem the world has ever undertaken, and it is not to be solved easily or quickly. That the solution can be attained by treaties alone is wholly improbable. Ultimately moral force may stop war, but not yet. French reliance upon collective resistance to aggression as embodied in the League of Nations is natural and legitimate. The United States refuses to become a party to that experiment. But if it were a party to it it would be infinitely more effective.

France has eminent statesmen who earnestly seek peace. There has been no more eminent or potent contributor to this great end than M. Briand. There is no reason to doubt that French policies are pacific. She is, however, entirely within her rights in viewing the question of national security on a wider basis than that of naval disarmament and treaties renouncing war. She is willing that the United States, Great Britain and Japan should engage in a tripartite agreement for the reduction of their navies, but whether she is to be included in this agreement will depend upon its nature and the extent to which she feels it safeguards her interests. The frankness with which she has stated her position in advance is to her credit, but it does not mean that a five power understanding cannot be reached. That will depend upon the capacity of international statesmanship assembled at London. Finally, authorization of an enlarged naval construction program has no particular significance. The United States has done the same thing. Both moves are obviously subject to the results of the London conference.

BUTLER ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, declares that those who want enforcement of all laws are fanatics. "If," he adds, "law enforcement meant the enforcement of all law, then the social order, at least in the United States, would quickly be afflicted with paralysis, partly because of the absurdity of many of these laws and partly because of their open conflicts with others. * * * Lawlessness is selective and unbroken human experience goes to prove that one man may hold a law in utter contempt and yet have high respect for the great body of the law of the land in which he lives."

To these statements of the distinguished Eastern educator no exception can be taken. They are in accord with reality and they are based on sound moral principles. They are, however, apt to be mistaken as a warrant for lawlessness and license. Dr. Butler does not mean that because a man may believe it is not wrong to steal he must be allowed to commit this offense without punishment. He does not mean that each citizen is to be the judge of what laws he shall obey and shall disobey. He does not mean to assert that a constitutional amendment which has been legally adopted and which presumably is supported by a majority of the people until the contrary is shown, is to be trampled under foot by criminals and gangsters who arrogate to themselves greater privileges and powers than belong to the government of the United States.

Dr. Butler does not in fact refer to criminals at all. Nor does he refer to the disreputable, hard-boiled liquor and saloon interests which before prohibition obeyed no laws and polluted the country with corruption and vice. He refers all the time to men of integrity, self-respect and moral principles. When he says that the "conduct of a gentleman and conduct in accordance with high moral standards are superior to law as methods of social control," he does not mean run runners, gangsters and bootleggers. He states again a fundamental social fact which should not be misconstrued as a warrant for license and lawlessness.

Dr. Butler has been demanding repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and has been entirely consistent. He is not an advocate of lawlessness or of nullification. He is a good citizen and a man of principle. The fact that he has contempt for numerous laws that are obviously absurd or unjust does not make him stoop to practices of a criminal. He may even refuse to obey them and remain both a gentleman and a good citizen.

FACING THE FUTURE

Perhaps, all things considered, no year in the present century has opened more auspiciously than that of 1936. This prospect is based on the remarkable achievements of 1929 and upon altogether favorable economic and social conditions. The observation is local, national and international in scope. The world has made tremendous progress during the last 12 months. The gains have been scientific, material and moral. The first constructive measures toward peace have been taken and upon the foundations erected greater measures are indicated for the coming year. The world is prosperous. All the nations that suffered so grievously from the great war are recovering, either slowly or rapidly, but surely recovering.

A new light is dawning on civilization that promises to create an entirely healthy international situation. The United States is rich and powerful beyond the dreams of its founders and even the vision of a couple of generations back. It has surpassed the world in its creative genius. There is so great an abundance of comfort and opportunity that we are the envy and amazement of the world. We are traveling at a terrific speed. We have everything to look forward to in social and economic advancement.

Our future is entirely in our own hands. We are menaced by absolutely nothing from without. If there is any danger to this nation it is solely from within. The danger, if it materializes, will come from super-abundance, luxury, indulgence and a placing of material values above spiritual and moral values. Prosperity has ruined many a man. It can do the same with a people or a nation. On the other hand, it can serve to make them truly great and noble.

As we start out on the New Year we can do nothing better than submit ourselves to a little introspection, both as individuals and as a country, to determine in just what direction we are going and what we are doing with our tremendous advantages and resources.

The Post-Mortem

greetings

Writing this on newyears eve . . . believe it or not . . . two of us in the place . . . louis napoleon, the night watchman, and jonah-the-corner . . . everyone else has gone to Sunday School or something . . . especially something . . . what an evening . . . radio is indulging in plain and embroidered staid . . . we are practicing our G-monor cough, varying the process with a snarl . . . more nice things . . . we can only tune in on "St. James Infirmary Blues" . . . sweet little number that, all about marble slabs and hearses . . . no fun in coughing—we gotta cracked lip . . .

louis napoleon

The night watchman is having himself one delicious time. For a change he can be one of the last people to bed in the morning. Sit home and snarl some newyears eve and see why men become night watchmen. We're putting in our application.

thousands

Keep track of the number of times cracks like these are passed:

"Wellwell, I haven't seen you since last year."
"Wellwellwell, I haven't had a bath since last year."

It's these things which make statistics a justifiable motive for homicide.

Direct reference to the disaster at Paisley, Scotland, is somewhat out of place in the post-mortem just now, but any day we expect to see a brainstorm something like the one which struck us:

The first horror of the tragedy passed. Sadly, the rescuers entered the little Scottish movie house to search for victims. Apparently no one remained. As the smoke lifted, the group spied a figure huddled into a seat down near the screen. They drew nearer and stared. The huddled one was a Scotch gentleman of about forty-five. The leader touched him on the shoulder.

"Are ye dead, man?"

The figure stirred, turned a weary countenance upwards.

"That I'm not," it said indignantly. "Can't a man wait for-r-r the show to go on 'thout bein' disturbed? One shillin' tuppence did I pay!"

squawksquawk

It's 1936 in N'Yawk as we pound this line, but it's still last year in Appleton. Rudy Vallee is expressing solace to the shut-ins and invalids. We hope he "chokes on his megaphone. Anyway we've had the grim satisfaction of hearing him interrupted by squawks and so on.

mystery

Yesterday we threatened you with our great coat mystery. Here goes:

- (1) Take off coat.
- (2) Hang coat on back of chair.
- (3) Take 45 minute nap.
- (4) Wake up.
- (5) Pick up coat, holding it in right hand instead of left.
- (6) Try entering it via the left arm first.
- (7) Call for help.

(Southpaws must reverse process or be disqualified.)

bonnlessly

There's really something to this mystery, but you gotta be sleepy before it gets beyond the point of solution. Know any more like it? Send 'em in.

hortense

Reports are beginning to drift in that we are due for a letter from Hortense, the literary-minded housewife. Hortense has been wintering in St. Petersburg, Florida. Hortense is a lovely girl we know you're gonna like her.

It wasn't quite 1936, as we ticked at his paragraph, but we grimly set our teeth (they weren't much out of line anyway) and waited.

medal

Jonah-the-corner will award the first niche in the Post-Mortem Hall of Blame for the best cure for snoring which reaches us by satirical night.

Be seeing you.

jonah-the-corner.

Today's Anniversary

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK

On Jan. 2, 1911, the postal savings banks opened.

This system provides for the deposit of savings at interest with the security of the United States government for repayment on demand. Simple interest at the rate of 2 per cent per annum is paid.

At the end of the fiscal year 1935, postal savings deposits were received at 6,679 depositories and there was remaining to the credit of depositors the sum of $131,000,000.

Today also is the anniversary of the ratification of the United States constitution by Georgia, on Jan. 2, 1788.

And on Jan. 2, 1775, the Colonial flag was first raised.

THE CRISIS IS NOT A TURNING POINT

According to a news story 150,000 "pilgrims" stormed a cemetery in Malden, Mass., the other day, where miraculous cures of the customary sort had been rumored as having occurred at the grave of a clergyman who died more than half a century ago.

Visiting my old home town in the melancholy days just past, I thought "What this community needs is a good miracle cure" and I considered at some length several tentative schemes to launch such a boom. All I lacked was a suitable case of hysteria—not hysterics, but the real thing—to start the game; preferably a patient wearing crutches which he could throw away at the psychological moment. (We could afford to provide him with a new pair later, when his excitement passed).

Once I had a pneumonia patient—a what's more, this patient survived. She may be alive today for all I know. She was a frail little woman, but a good sort, old, too good, as I was presently to learn. She had a lot of good relations, too. Among 'em was her nurse. Now it is a pretty sound policy for a doctor to take a back seat when there is illness in his own family: an outsider can always do better for the patient if given charge. How it may be with nurses I am not sure, but in this instance it was bad.

In due course my patient reached what is technically called the "crisis." Unfortunately, it merely signifies a fall in the fever and great relief of all the symptoms; perhaps it takes 12 hours or so. From then on, everything is fine, provided—provided everything is fine.

In this case I fear the good nurse misconstrued the "crisis." At any rate the relations did, and the nurse apparently succumbed to the general psychology of anxiety. At the romantic hour of midnight the nurse summoned me hurriedly: Auntie was dying. I just couldn't afford it at the moment, so I reached the bedside as soon as I could. There were divers impediments in my path—cousins, sister, uncles, sons, neighbors et cetera all praying fervently and in fine voice. I realized instantly that here was a crisis for me. If the hocus-pocus went on and Auntie lived—where would I be? Whereas, if I failed to hit the game and then Auntie went and died—well, it was a mean situation. However, I was young then and not at all desecrated. So I bustled 'em out of the sickroom in no gentle way and had 'em do their praying in the kitchen or anywhere they preferred as long as they didn't pollute the atmosphere of the sickroom. I meant that both physically and psychologically. The good nurse was rather shocked, too. Anyway, Auntie soon opened her eyes, realized the nurse hadn't started and actually smiled a little. Then I knew I had 'em, and you may believe I took full advantage of the situation. On leaving I issued a warning that if any further marathon sums in the prayer line were staged in the sickroom I should retire from the case.

Prayer is a fine thing, but not when it is fatalistic.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fresh Milk for the Bimbo

Can you tell me whether . . . (a) manufactured milk and sugar product is correct food for a small infant? I have heard it causes rickets. (Mrs. H. H.)

Answer—In my opinion it is not correct food for an infant, tho it serves well enough to tide over an emergency, as when traveling, where the supply of pure fresh milk is unavailable.

Unhappy If she Doesn't Bathe, Miserable if she Does

In spite of what you say I am perfectly miserable if I don't have a bath at least twice a week, and I'm just as miserable when I do bathe, from itching afterward. I've tried water, but they make no difference. . . . (Mr. E. T.)

Answer—Probably your sebaceous glands are solidifying on the job, insufficient sebum or skin oil, dry, irritable skin. Water with or without soap of course removes some of the scanty oil and aggravates the trouble. Try dry cleaning—air baths. Keep on hand a jug of dew or a tube of skin cream or one or another good skin oil and apply a few drops immediately after bathing.

Lady of Raven Locks Please Write
By all means let the woman tell us more about her experience with the home made dye for darkening gray hair. Many of us in the forties or earlier see our jots endangered by the silver threads among the brown. (C. J. J.)

Answer—That was the suggestion to dissolve a piece of copperas (iron sulphate) the size of a chestnut in a pint of black tea, and comb or brush the gray hair with this daily. To keep it dark. Several others have reported their experience with this; about half of them experienced disappointment, and the other half satisfaction. I imagine the result depends on the faithfulness and regularity of application. Anyway it is harmless. That gray or graying hair does actually impair the usefulness of an individual in business or industry is a sad commentary on the intelligence of the people who think like that—or rather people whose wisdom comes ready made.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Seen and heard around Hollywood: Samuel Goldwyn once objected to move actors' dabbling in legitimate stage art, but today Lily Damita is playing in a Broadway musical with his consent, and another Goldwyn star, Evelyn Laye, is completing a Broadway engagement before reporting for service here.

Lois Moran has literary as well as acting ambitions. . . . Buddy Rogers will be his own director and cameraman in some scenes of "Young Eagles," air picture. . . . He will set in motion an electrically controlled camera, set in front of the cockpit, when his plane is in the air.

They literally fly after talkie roles now. Helen Johnson of the stage hoped a westbound plane to answer a studio summons.

THE DOG STAR

Marie Dressler, the comedienne, once wrote an autobiography called "The Life Story of an Ugly Duckling," relating, obviously, how she succeeded on stage and screen without benefit of beauty.

Here is the tale of an "ugly duckling" of the canine world in the movies. . . . Mutt is a pedigreed dog, about 4 years old. He looks mangy, lazy, spindly, queer. But the records of his owner, Henry East, prove his aristocratic lineage. Mutt, it seems, was a "throwback" in a highly respectable dog-family. A Sealham, he was supposed to be—beautiful. Instead—well, even his dog-mother must have shuddered at sight of him.

WITH THE CROWS

Mutt, however, has fooled them. He atoned in intelligence for what he lacked in beauty, and was amenable to training.

Result, he has played in the movies with Billie Dove, Clara Bow, and Bebe Daniels, besides in the "Big Boy" comedies. And more, he has weathered the change to talkies for a rather difficult thing for a canine actor to do. He is now the lazy pet of the lazy Charlie Mack in the "Two Black Crows" second talkie.

EAT TO GROW THIN

London.—A prominent physician of Harley street has advocated the following startling method for reducing: "The golden rule for those who seek a slim figure should be: 'Eat whatever you like and as much as you like as long as it is properly digested.' Easily assimilated foods may be taken in any quantity without fear, and two of these foods are oysters and honey."

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Predictions were freely made, when Vice President Curtis became presiding officer of the United States senate, that senators were about to embark on an intensive study of parliamentary etiquette.

They had become a little lax in this respect while Charles Dawes wielded the gavel. "Hell and Made" had been rather lenient with them and inclined to let them have a good time when debate became heated. And, while senators realized that Curtis knew them too well to employ two-fisted methods, nevertheless they fully recognized that he had something closely akin to a passion for strict order when business was at hand.

The prophets were not wrong. It is doubtful if the senate ever had a more strict presiding officer than the swarthy Kansan.

SQUELCHING THEM

An incident which occurred during the Vane episode in the senate is typical of how zealous Curtis is in this respect.

At one time during debate, Robinson, Bingham and Fess were on their feet seeking recognition from the chair. Norris was calling for a vote on his resolution to deny Vane his seat, and Leflan was adding to the confusion by asking for the yeas and nays.

The senate was in an uproar when Reed arose to make the point of order that the senate was in disorder. Waterman and Shortridge joined the three seeking recognition.

Down came Curtis' gavel with a resounding thud, and his voice boomed:

"Let senators take their seats."

All obeyed but Bingham, who repeated his request by:

"Mr. President—"

Curtis brought his gavel down with greater emphasis, and again his voice boomed:

"Senators will please take their seats."

Bingham ignored the order, and still standing, his face a bit flushed again addressed the chair.

It is a wonder that the resounding board on the vice president's dais held up under the force of Curtis' blow with the gavel this time. In a voice that was absolutely quiet, he again commanded:

"Senators will please take their seats!"

Once Bingham had taken his seat and order restored, Curtis deliberately paused for almost a minute in the chamber was absolutely quiet. Then, in a voice that was almost gentle, he said:

"The chair recognizes the Senator from Colorado (Waterman)."

Probably a half-hour later Curtis relinquished the chair and strolled out into the republican cloakroom. There he met Bingham, chatting with Couzens of Michigan.

"Charlie," said Couzens, "I guess Hiram would be standing now if you didn't gotten a little bit rough with him."

The three laughed. Bingham remarked that he thought he was within his rights, and for that reason he continued to stand.

Curtis explained the situation.

U. S. GROUP TO MAP AIR TRAFFIC SYSTEM

Washington (P)—Eight men in aeronautics work have undertaken to bring about uniformity in air traffic control.

Headed by Col. Henry H. Blee of the department of commerce, the committee includes Charles H. Helm, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics; F. C. Hingsburg, bureau of lighthouses; Lieut. Newton Longfellow, air corps; Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, bureau of standards; James Murray, Aeronautical chamber of commerce; Com. F. D. Wagner, navy bureau of aeronautics, and A. Pendleton Tallaferro, department of commerce.

"Airports are the bottlenecks of air transportation," Col. Blee said. "As the aerial carriage of passengers, mail, and merchandise increases, an accurate control of this traffic is a basic necessity."

The committee will undertake a special study of conditions, especially seeking the development of standard day-and-night signal systems for controlling air traffic on and in the vicinity of airports.

TWO MORE TROLLEYS ARE BOMBED IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans—(AP)—In the latest violence attendant to the six months old street car strike here two trolleys have been bombed, the second blast occurring in a distant section of the city while authorities were investigating the first in the downtown district.

The bombings last night followed the dynamiting of one car on Tuesday night. Police have announced they will arrest suspects under an old state law providing the death penalty for such violence. Federal marshals enforcing a court order protecting the street car lines have assisted in the investigations of the frequent bombings.

Miss N. McPherson and Miss Whitely David, two passengers killed when the first car encountered a charge of dynamite laid on the car tracks near the edge of the city's business district. Eight other passengers were unhurt.

The women were removed to a hospital suffering from shock, but later were allowed to go to their homes. Four boards in the front of the car were torn up. The dynamite broke 25 panes of glass in a nearby house, and additional panes in a cigar factory adjacent.

Hardly had police and government marshals begun an investigation when the second street car was bombed in a similar fashion in another section. Four passengers on the second car escaped injury.

NO CLASH BETWEEN U. S. AND CHINA ON COURTS

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Stimson said today that a study of the recent Chinese proclamation on extraterritoriality showed that government to be in accord with the American position on abolition of these rights.

Reports from China that the action of the Nanking government was taken to end all extraterritorial rights on Jan. 1, Mr. Stimson said, were not borne out by the text of the proclamation, which he interpreted to mean that the Chinese wished Jan. 1 to be the starting point for gradual elimination of the extraterritorial rights of the foreign powers.

This, he said, was exactly in keeping with the conversations which have been conducted in Washington between the state department and Minister Wu of China.

Galway—(AP)—The Irish Free State has decided to spend $1,000,000 making University College here a real Gaelic institution. Instruction will be given in that ancient tongue.

Is Mother of Eight

"The first year after I got married I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so weak that the minute I would start to do something I would feel badly. It did me a lot of good. Since then I have taken the Vegetable Compound off and on whenever I needed it. I am now the mother of eight children and I still recommend this medicine for it makes me feel younger and stronger."—Mrs. Orence Godfrey, 103 Cumberland Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE went alone to Geraldine's room. The house in which the girl who had once been engaged to Theodore Merryman lived, was an old brownstone mansion that had grown shabby and tired, still trying to wave its drab banners of genteel respectability. It was a hard, austere atmosphere.

Sue suddenly felt cold and wondered why it was that Geraldine had stayed on in such a place. She was beginning to realize that there were a good many things about the girl that she didn't understand. Geraldine admitted her to her room, holding the door just wide enough for her to come in. It was an ordinary bedroom, trying to redeem itself with a few cushions and scarfs, a row of books, and a picture or two.

"You're sick! Geraldine, you look terrible!" Sue's voice was frightened.

"Oh, no! I'm feeling fine! I know I look rather disheveled but my health is all right!" She gave a dry laugh, intended for a laugh. "My state of mind isn't so pleasant though. Sit down, and I'll tell you Chapter Two of the story I began last night."

Sue sat down, but her eyes were taking in the wan, listless pallor of the other girl's face.

"This morning," Geraldine began, pushing a box of chocolates toward Sue, "I made a business trip. Take some candy, John Foster sent it. I guess he felt sorry for me and thought he'd do his usual stunt of being sweet to ladies in distress. As I was saying, I went to a jewelry store and tried to sell back the ring, but the places where I went wouldn't bother. They admitted it was a good stone and all, but they seemed afraid. I guess they thought it was passed even if it wasn't. I wanted to get rid of it before I met Clinger and flung it in his face. Tempers are nice, but expensive."

"Well, at last I went into a pawn shop. Were you ever in one, Sue?" The younger girl shook her head. "It was down in a basement and there were rows and rows of boxes of rings. I didn't know how to act. The pawn-broker was an old man and he looked at the stone and said something in a strange language and called his assistant and they offered me a paltry sum. I told them I wouldn't leave it. Then they asked me if I had a wedding ring on, too, and when they saw that I didn't they said I was lucky."

"You should have seen the bands, hundreds of them. I wondered if any ring ever meant anything for always and always." Then she shook her head and said, "Pretty soon they let me have my ring and I went home, and I had been here about an hour when someone came to see me. I went downstairs and found a clerk from the jewelry store where my ring was purchased. Martin had sent word to them to get the ring from me and keep it. He had made just one installment on it and the knave had never intended to make another. He told them and put them on his trail."

"So they took the ring? You can rejoice that it's gone," Sue said, emphatically.

"That's where the story begins," Geraldine said. "The jewelry store expert wouldn't accept it, for it's a phony stone. The pawn-merchant and his assistant had done a sleight-of-hand trick and handed me a piece of glittering glass." She took a card from the box. "Isn't life a good joke to anyone who can find the point?"

NEXT: Sue makes a suggestion.

This was a communion service. Announcements were made Sunday after the services, Monday afternoon and evening.

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

"W"ERE rather clever," cried Clowry. "We stumped the Wind Man when he tried to blow us out into the air. And now we're safe and sound. He sure looked funny when he broke to pieces. After all, the joke was just on him. We Tynymites are not so dumb, he found."

"Oh, you deserve the credit, lad. To all the rest things looked real bad," said Scouty. "Then you had the hunch to break the old Wind Man. That only proves what I have said. Where'er you stop and use your head and try to do things right, it always turns out that you can."

Then Carpy shouted, "Three good cheers for Clowry. He dispelled our fears. We still are on our famous bike and having heaps of fun. And now, let's plan where we will go. We all can travel on as long as this nice bike will run."

Another cried, "I'll tell you what! Let's steer right down to earth. Why not? In that way we can likely find out where we're heading for. Up here we cannot see a thing. A trip to earth may quickly bring a lot of new surprises. No one knows what is in store."

And so they circled slowly round and shortly pedaled to the ground. Just as they landed, someone cried, "Hello there! Have no fear. Step up and all shake hands with me. The calendar's just set me free, I'm little 1930 and I've come to stay all year."

Then Scouty shouted, "Welcome, lad! You can be sure that we are glad that you've arrived here safe and sound. We hope you like your stay! We'll all shake hands and say good-bye, and soon ride back into the sky. We're looking for adventure, so we must be on our way."

(The Tynymites take a spill in the next story.)

20 BILLION DOLLAR FINANCING NEEDED FOR RAIL MERGERS

Roads in Each System Would Decide Which Shall Be Parent Unit

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Washington (C.P.A.)—Financing incident to adoption of the railroad merger plan of the Interstate commerce commission by the carriers of the country would involve over $20,000,000,000 in one form or another. This refinancing would affect directly the tax returns to various states from the transportation companies and would bring hundreds of millions into certain state treasuries for incorporation fees and stock transfer taxes.

The method of procedure in such consolidations and financing as anticipated by the federal regulatory body was made plain today by one of the chief executives of the commission.

The roads in each system themselves will make the decision as to which shall be the parent unit. The railroad of the greatest financial stability, credit and sound banking connections in each group will be considered by the commission the logical carrier to be the parent of the group.

The mere designation of the various rail systems as the Wabash or the Boston and Maine system or others does not mean that the road so named would act as the parent company.

PLAN NOT BINDING
It was reiterated at the department today that the plan would not be binding upon the various railroads. It is simply a notice to the carriers to come in and show cause why the plan is not proper and workable. It is a guide to the railroad companies of the country in formulating plans for unification and a basis on which they may build up systems, proposals for which must be submitted to the commission for final approval.

These statements are of extreme importance in view of the extraordinary amount of financing which any general consolidation would entail. Bankers, financiers and investors have been asking since the announcement of the plan, "who is going to put up the money?" The ruling that the road with the sound banking connections will be the controlling factor in any mergers has narrowed the field of financial contestants.

The way the commission hopes the scheme will work out is that prior to submitting a consolidation for the commission's approval, the various roads' representatives would confer and decide on which road would be best able to assume the position of the controlling unit, and decide in some measure at least on the methods by which this unit shall acquire the subsidiary units.

DON'T NEED ALL CASH
The financing certainly would not involve the raising of that great sum—$20,000,000,000—in cash. Acquisition by controlling units of subsidiary units by stock transfer, by the issue and sale of new stock and by purchases outright for cash are the methods anticipated by the commission.

It may be decided that the proper method is to form an entirely new company to acquire all the roads involved. This method has already been outlined in the application for a merger approval by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific lines. In that case a new company known as the Great Northern Pacific Railway is proposed to acquire both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific by means of stock transfer, and, incidentally, to control the Burlington

Dressmakers And Tailors Profit By Royal Wedding

Rome (A.P.)—All the women-folk of the diplomatic set and those who are admitted at court have made sizeable purchases of toilettes in anticipation of the social functions that will lead up to the crown prince's marriage to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium Jan. 8.

Foreign diplomats highly placed government functionaries and members of both the papal and Italian aristocracies have been replenishing their wardrobes. New full dress uniforms have been ordered by the army, navy and aviation officers destined to attend the royal wedding ceremony and others leading up to it. The last category naturally includes Colonel Humbert of Savoy, the bridegroom.

Despite Mussolini's campaign in favor of made-in-Italy raiment, it is an open secret that Paris dressmakers and London tailors and haberdashers have had quite a bit more than their share of the diplomatic and aristocratic custom. Roman tailors, however, have nothing to complain of, thanks to the boom given their handwork by a report that the Prince of Wales will this year have some Italian models among his sartorial accoutrements. But even the most patriotic and home-boasting Italians have been showing a preference for English cloth, although ordering their evening clothes and formal morning and afternoon dress from their regular purveyors.

Hotels have been spruced up in anticipation of the many dinners, dances and teas that will accompany the princely nuptials.

SHERIFF HERE IS ONE OF 16 TO GET SALARY AND FEES

Milwaukee-co Pays Largest Salary; LaFayette-co Pays Lowest

Outagamie-co is one of the 16 counties of the state whose sheriffs are paid on a salary and fee basis, according to figures compiled by the municipal information bureau of the University of Wisconsin extension division. Outagamie-co's sheriff receives a salary of $2,500 plus fees and mileage for serving civil papers and traveling outside the county in criminal cases.

Other counties where the sheriffs receive fees in addition to a regular salary are: Adams, Ashland, Barron, Calumet, Chippewa, Dane, Door, Green, Iowa, Juneau, Marathon, Price, Sawyer, Washburn and Washington.

Six sheriffs in Wisconsin get salaries of $4,000 or more. The Milwaukee-co sheriff gets the largest salary, $6,000, and LaFayette-co is at the other extreme with $900. Sheriffs receiving the larger salaries are those of the following counties, in addition to Milwaukee: Oconto and Kenosha, $5,000; Oneida, $4,800; Fond du Lac, $4,200; Eau Claire, $4,000; Vilas, $3,600; Racine, $2,500; Adams, $2,300 (plus fees);

Iron and Manitowish, $3,300; and Shawano and Winnebago, $3,000.

New York—Gloria Swanson will have her joke. She sent a great bundle of newspapers to the state-room of a voyaging friend with this card: "Thought you might like something to read."

Washington—There's a haven for wild duck near the Washington monument. Driven by hunters' guns from the Potomac marshes, where they like to eat wild celery, they are flocking to the tidal basin, lured by food scattered there by order of Colonel U. S. Grant 3rd.

LOCAL BANKS PLAN ANNUAL MEETINGS

Stockholders to Meet Second Week in January to Hear Reports

Appleton banks will hold their annual stockholders meetings the second week in January. Three of the banks, the First National, Citizens National and the Outagamie State, will meet Tuesday evening, Jan. 14, and the Appleton State bank will hold its meeting Wednesday evening, Jan. 15.

With the exception of the First National bank, there will be no special business taken up by any of the other institutions. Stockholders of the first National will vote on a proposed 10 for 1 stock splitup, as recommended by the directors. There will be no increase in the capital stock of $500,000 but the par value of the shares will be lowered from $100 to $10 and the number of shares will be increased from 5,000 to 50,000.

At all of the other meetings directors will be elected and routine reports will be read. Directors will meet later to elect the officers of each bank.

Such a procedure would not involve actual cash outlay for the roads but it would involve big fees for incorporation in some state, and high legal and promotional expenses.

The plan for exchange of stock in one company for that of another may be somewhat sparingly used because of the delays incident to the protests of minority stockholders.

It is believed the issuing of new stock will be the favored method in the acquiring of the principal short lines assigned to each big system.

Such issues would provide cash to buy share control of the short lines in the open market or by private arrangement. Less important lines might be bought outright for cash.

The main part of the financing, however, will be undertaken by bankers or a group of bankers representing the controlling unit of the system, probably through advances secured by notes, bonds or other long term securities guaranteed by the property of the carriers involved.

HEALTH RECORD OF CITY IS LOWERED DURING PAST YEAR

Death Rate Is Only 1.5 Per Cent, Physician Reports

New London.—With a population of 4,700 persons and a death rate of 1.5 per cent, the health situation in New London is the best in the history of the city, according to the annual report of Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer, city physician.

Cooperation of parents in having children vaccinated is given by Dr. Pfeiffer as one reason for the low death rate and the scarcity of communicable diseases during the last year. The city's good water supply which ranks among the best in the state, is another reason for the low death rate, the report shows.

In 1929 there were but two cases of scarlet fever reported as compared with 24 for 1928. Ten cases of diphtheria were reported in the last year as compared with 24 the year previous. Seven cases of measles in 1929 and two in 1928; seven cases of chicken pox in 1929 and 23 in 1928; two cases of mumps in 1929 and 25 in 1928; five cases of tuberculosis in 1929 and seven in 1928. There also were 20 cases of whooping cough last year, one of influenza and eight of typhoid fever.

The typhoid fever was checked soon after the outbreak, according to the city physician.

FORMER STATE JUDGE SUCCEEDS AT OMRO

Omro.—Judge Wilbur E. Hurlbut, 62, former member of the legislature and former judge of the Third judicial circuit, is dead at his home here. He served in the circuit two years.

Judge Hurlbut started practicing law in Oshkosh in 1898 after having been graduated from the University of Michigan college of law. He was also admitted to practice in Vermont, his native state. He was elected to the legislature in 1910 as a Republican and was re-elected in 1912 without opposition.

He represented the Sixth congressional district at the national Republican convention in Chicago in 1912, and from 1913 to 1915 was a member of the committee on courts and procedure in the Wisconsin legislature. He took an active part in passage of the workmen's compensation act and highway bills.

KOHLER'S SISTER HEAD OF BETTER HOMES DRIVE

Kohler.—(4P)—Marie C. Kohler, sister of Gov. Walter J. Kohler, today was announced by the National Better Homes in America organization, Washington, D. C., as 1930 chairman of the Wisconsin campaign for better homes.

The town of Kohler was awarded a prize in 1929 for being the best example of a well-rounded industrial community. In making the appointment, James Ford, executive director of the organization wrote: "We have come to look upon your local demonstration in Kohler as among the most valuable and significant of all those held throughout the country."

HUSK CORN IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill.—(4P)—Some corn was husked in Illinois during the last week, Clarence J. Root, meteorologist, United States Department of Agriculture, stated in his weekly synopsis of weather and crop conditions, which says:

"The week was rather mild with no precipitation of consequence. The snow of the 15th gradually melted, but many drifts remain in the northern and central counties. The condition of winter wheat is satisfactory. A little corn was husked, and some is spoiling in fields and cribs in the southern division."

SAFETY IN FOG

London.—An English inventor has devised an appliance that is designed to prevent automobiles running off the road in a fog. It is based on the fact that fog is heavier than the air and is graded from the ground down and consists of a spiral level which works as the car turns toward the low, or outside part of the road.

There has been a slump in prices. Decrees awarded last year were 2,071 compared with 2,102 in 1928.

FILE EXCEPTION TO EXCEPTIONS OF BADGER CARRIERS

Urge That Request for Further Oral Argument Be Dismissed

(Wash. Bureau of the Post-Crescent)

Washington.—Wisconsin interests have filed with the Interstate Commerce commission, an exception to the exceptions of southwestern carriers and Wisconsin lines to the proposed report of Examiner Burton Fuller in the Consolidated Southwestern cases.

The Wisconsin sponsors of this latest exception to a very complicated case included: J. R. Davy, Sheboygan; S. L. Foote, Madison; I. W. Whitaker, Manitowish; J. M. Campbell, Janesville; L. E. Everson, Two Rivers; G. C. Campbell, Oshkosh; the Marinette Industrial Board; Menominee Chamber of Commerce, represented by M. J. Anuta, traffic commissioner; H. C. Strom, Menominee; Green Bay Association of Commerce; the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, represented by W. F. Elmann, chief of the traffic department and Philip H. Porter, attorney.

They ask that the request of the southwestern carriers for further oral argument of the case be dismissed on the grounds that the case is too complicated for oral argument and that such argument will only cause further delay. They urge a speedy decision in the case.

They maintain that the southwestern carriers' assumption and attempt to convey the impression that the rates, proposed in the report from Wisconsin to southwestern points would be at the same rate as a point to point extension of the southwestern scale, is false and mistaken. The Wisconsin interests find no indication, either specific or conveyed of this in Examiner Fuller's report.

THEY ALLEGEDLY DENY ALLEGATION OF THE southwestern carriers that the differential groups into which Examiner Fuller proposed to divide Wisconsin carriers are too small. Enlarging the groups would greatly injure Wisconsin. The Wisconsin brief reads:

"The insistence of the southwestern lines that large groups be used in Wisconsin and that rates be fixed so as to represent a fair average of the scale (southwestern) scale, applied to such groups cannot do otherwise than deny many important localities the advantages of their locations, produce undue competitive hardships and perpetuate unjustifiable and inconsistent rate humps of widely varying character."

Comparing the proposed grouping in Wisconsin with that in nearby states in similar proceedings, the Wisconsin interests found little difference. Wisconsin with an area of 55,256 square miles is to be divided into 17 groups with an average area of 3,250 square miles covered. The following table shows comparative figures in four other states:

Illinois, area 56,043 square miles, 19 groups, 2,950 average area.

Iowa, area 55,556 square miles, 24 groups, 2,316 average area.

Indiana, area 36,045 square miles, 13 groups, 2,773 average area.

Ohio, area 47,440 square miles, 12 groups, 3,955 average area.

Minnesota is thought to be very similar to these, although no actual figures were given in the exception.

STONE NEWSPAPERS

Rome—"Newspapers" in the form of large stone tablets have been uncovered in an excavation work near Ostia. This unusual tabulation, written at a time when no form of news was compiled in "newspaper" form, has excited scientists all over the country. One of the tablets is said to record the death of Pompey in 49 B. C., and the will of Julius Caesar.

MEN OF WAR

The hospital ship Relief

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventeenth of a series of articles on the strength of the U. S. navy, especially in comparison with that of Great Britain. The articles are of especial interest in view of the approaching naval arms limitation conference at London.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

The navy carries its own floating hospitals, equipped with every facility of a hospital on shore for the care of the sick and wounded. The hospital ships use ambulance boats instead of ambulances on wheels, and the nurses on board are the only women who go to sea with the fleet in time of peace or war.

The hospital ship Mercy was decommissioned last summer after her cruise with the scouting fleet on maneuvers. She was an old converted passenger liner and can be commissioned again if necessary.

Now the only hospital ship in commission is the Relief, which is kept with the battle fleet on the west coast. She has a large number of patients at all times. On board are 350 beds for patients, a number easily expanded to 500 in case of emergency. There are nine medical officers among her 400 officers and men, this staff being also subject to increase when needed.

The Relief was built for hospital purposes at the Philadelphia navy yard and cost $4,500,000. Her operating expenses last year were $575,000. She is a vessel of 10,000 tons.

FERTILE SOIL IS TEEMING WITH LIFE

Minute Bacteria and Mold Organisms Are Found in Good Land

Soil to the casual observer may seem a comparatively lifeless substance, but to trained scientists it is teeming with life. Farm soils often contain more than a ton to the acre of minute bacteria and mold organisms, according to a report by Agent Gus Still.

Too small to be seen by the naked eye, these tiny organisms are active, working to break down plant and animal refuse so that the mineral elements they contain may be returned into compounds that can be assimilated by plants during growth, a condition known as the nitrogen cycle.

452 feet long and good for an estimated speed of 16 knots.

By international agreement, hospital ships are unarmed, neutral and not used for any but medical purposes in wartime. They are supposed to be immune from capture and attack.

TOMORROW: Ocean-going tugs.

Mrs. Pierce was born in the service of her master she served before the war, and was never sold as a slave. She still adores this old master. She likes the north as well as her former home below the Mason-Dixon line.

COUNTRY LIFE GROUP TO MEET IN MADISON

Madison —(P)— The invitation of Wisconsin rural groups to hold its 15th annual meeting at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, has been accepted by the American Country Life association. The association will hold its next meeting in Madison during the third week in October.

Standards of living will be the key subject discussed by authorities on rural life.

The purpose of the American Country Life association is to foster discussion of rural problems and stimulate thought regarding rural subjects. It was founded in 1915 as a continuation of the House-ell Country Life Commission and since that time has been active in advancing rural interests.

Last year the national meeting was held at Ames, Iowa. Practically all agencies connected with rural life in the state joined the invitational appeal parties.

RULE WOODMEN MUST ANSWER INJUNCTION

Case Brought Against Head Camp Is Remanded to Circuit Court

Menasha—Menasha members of the Modern Woodmen have been notified that the Supreme court of Illinois has remanded the injunction case brought against the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America to the Cook-co circuit court with directions that relief prayed for be granted—that the head officers be held to answer the injunction suit.

The supreme court's ruling does not go to the bottom of the new assessments under fire, but sends the case back to the Cook-co court with the order to that court that an injunction be issued. The injunction is against the new rates, and to assure all participants an equal share in the society's reserve fund of $39,000,000.

The opinion holds that the reserve fund of $39,000,000 was created for the benefit of all members and holds that amendment of section 42 of the by-laws, assuming to classify members and give them benefits of the fund in unequal proportion is unreasonable.

The local camp of Modern Woodmen have just received a letter from Judge David Agnew of Waukegan, who was elected president of the Modern Woodmen protest association organized at Fond du Lac on Dec. 1, instructing them to the effect that a meeting of the Wisconsin Woodmen will soon be called to take action on their future course.

SAYS PROSPERITY IS INEVITABLE TO HARD WORKING U. S.

Professor-engineer Believes 1930 Will Be Another Good Year

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
New York—Doubtful economic and business conditions to the contrary, the United States is entering another of its most prosperous years—all because it will do nearly as much work in 1930 as all the rest of the world put together.

Prof. Thomas T. Read, of Columbia University, has completed a survey of the world's power production, and he says that the mills of America's prosperity are not grinding slowly. Machines in this country, he has found, are doing twice as much work as those of Great Britain, four times that of France and nearly thirty times that of China.

"These figures show," he declared, "how false is the belief held abroad that the United States has grown rich at the expense of Europe."

"The wealth of the United States is the product of the work done here. This is proven by the fact that the per capita wealth of this country and Great Britain is exactly in proportion to the per capita work done in both countries."

It is the working men of America who have made possible the rich working men, according to Professor Read, who is an engineer and a lecturer of international trade. He believes in the machine age, and believes in using machines to do the world's drudgery. He believes in an industrial civilization, and consequently is sure of American prosperity for the new decade as well as the new year.

"The industrial system in America today, the wealth it has produced, and its potential prosperity, is unparalleled in history," he said. "And it is because our rich men are literally captains of industry, when they become millionaires, instead of merely collectors of treasures and enjoying themselves, they keep expanding their businesses and remain business men."

EUROPE'S IDLE RICH
"In Europe, the average man of wealth ceases to be a producer after he has his competence. The highest achievement, socially and politically, was to be rich and to be the few, but not productive for the whole."

"A king surrounded himself by courtiers, diplomats, artists, and entertainers, who added to the gaiety of the court, and produced something individually, but nothing economically."

On the contrary, the Carnegies, Schencks, Duntons and Morgans keep on expanding and developing new industries as their millions pile up, and they give employment, and high class employment, to millions of people.

"Our rich men surround themselves with highly skilled technicians and mechanical experts, who can carry out their ideas, instead of self-sufficiency."

SEES NO DECREASE IN SKILL
Professor Read scoffs at the idea that machines have driven skill from this country. He admits we no longer have the man-of-all-work who could do anything from fixing the clock to repairing the mantle, but says this man is absent only because he has become absorbed in industry and is being paid a good salary for doing some one thing well. The tinkers of yesterday are the skilled technicians of today.

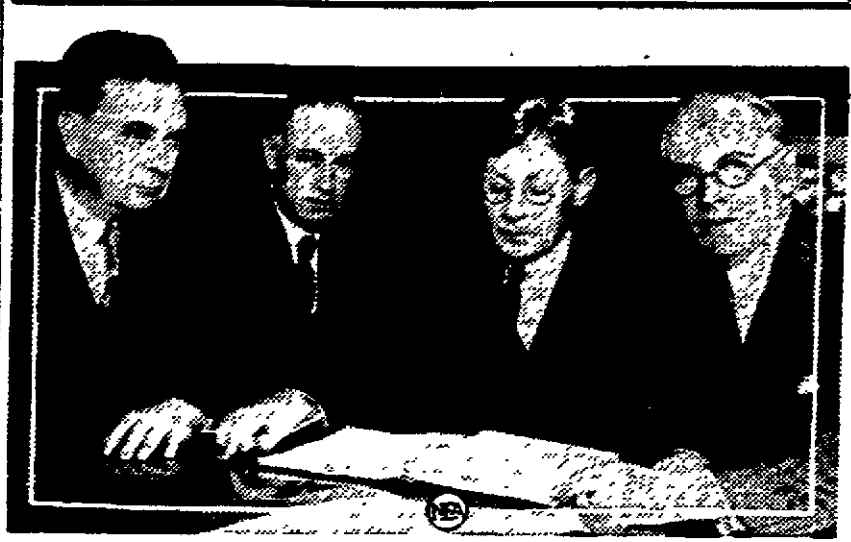

Employment, too, he believes has been organized and enlarged until the matter of finding a job is much simpler today, even for the least skilled labor. "New industries are being developed, and the recruits for these must come from our own laboring class instead of Europe, since the immigration laws have restricted that type of labor."

He opposed the city plan proposal which was defeated 26,396 for and 29,524 against.

The total vote was the largest in the city's election records despite heavy rain.

They Hold Tom Moody's Fate

Whether or not Tom Moody and Warren K. Billings will be released from the California prison where they have served 13 years, for the preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916 depends largely on these men, members of the California state advisory prison board, who are studying evidence in the case and will report to Gov. C. C. Young whether or not pardons should be granted. Left to right, they are Court Smith, warden of Folsom prison; James Holohan, warden of San Quentin prison; Lieutenant Governor H. L. Carnahan, and James Johnson, California crime commission chairman.

Paper Shows Wave Move Acts To Cement Universe

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—A new proof of the peculiar wave motion believed by some scientists to cement the universe today was awarded the highest honor of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the $1,000 reward for "an outstanding paper."

The author was A. J. Dempster, physicist of the University of Chicago. The award was the final action of the annual meeting of the association which closed this forenoon.

Mr. Dempster demonstrated indirect but visible evidence of the wave motion of very tiny bits of hydrogen. They were nearly full sized atoms, 2,000 times heavier than anything in which this odd motion previously had been conclusively shown.

According to one of the latest sensations in science, called wave-mechanics, there is thought to be a wave motion of the particles in all substances. It is believed that this motion in some manner effects the very nature of material substance.

Extremists have gone so far as to suggest that everything which exists is in the last analysis merely some form of wave motion.

Tangible proof of this motion is regarded with great interest. Only a few physicists have attempted demonstrations and it was barely two years ago that Davidson and German of New York obtained one of the first evidences. That was of wave motion in electrons, particles far lighter than the bits of hydrogen used by Dempster. One or two other physicists have reported evidence of the hydrogen motion, and the award to Dempster was made on account of the convincing nature of his demonstration.

In a vacuum tube he stripped a stream of hydrogen atoms of their electrons. He had left nearly full sized atoms which he directed in a tiny stream against a calcite crystal. From the manner in which these atoms rebounded off the crystal surface he showed that they were hitting it with a wave motion.

Mr. Dempster is known among scientists for work on vacuum tubes and for analysis of isotopes, which are minute differences in atoms which are elements that do not affect their chemical actions.

Father Malloy, heading the investigation, said it was too early to classify the ruins as those of Sodom. The Bible records a visitation of fire and brimstone on Sodom, and its twin city Gomorrah because of the wickedness of their inhabitants.

The ruins are located in the eastern plain of the Jordan about six kilometers north of the Dead sea. They were located quite by accident when members of a Pontifical Biblical institute party found some flint objects and potsherds where their tents were located.

Investigators, taking note of relics found, assumed the place was burned in the bronze age and never has been inhabited since. The relics included broken pottery, a few vases, and flint instruments. Among the ruins was an ancient wall, built partly of stone and partly of bricks.

TWO BROTHERS ESCAPE FROM FOREST-GO JAIL

Crandon—(AP)—A posse searched today for two brothers who fled the Forest-co jail while the sheriff was at a dance.

Beecher and Reece Roe, charged with abduction and rape, using soap-muffled saws, made their way to freedom shortly after midnight yesterday.

Sheriff and Mrs. Ben Schaefer and Undersheriff Parker Bailey were at a dance at Woodman hall and the jail was unattended save for County Judge S. J. Conway, who has been stopping at the sheriff's home.

Five hacksaws, heavily soaped, were found in the jail after the Roe brothers escaped. They sawed off two heavy iron bars, pried them apart and squeezed out. After returning from the dance, the sheriff, in putting a lumberjack in a cell for the night, discovered that his prisoners had fled. They were reported to have made their way toward Angulo.

No Chance Grid Fumble Rule Will Be Abolished

Football Mentors Would Extend It To Cover Passes

Intimate They Would Bar Running With an Inter-cepted Pass

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The new and much-discussed fumble rule, applied for the first time in 1929, has come to stay in the gridiron code. This was made clear and emphatic yesterday by Edward K. Hall of New York, chairman of the national football rules committee, in his annual report to the National Collegiate Athletic association.

The rules committee, as a matter of fact, contemplates no changes for 1930, beyond such technical revisions and clarifications as may result from the completion of the recodification of the whole rules book. The attitude of the committee, as expressed by Mr. Hall, thus coincides with the views of football coaches who went on record on Monday opposing as opposed to any changes in the regulations for the new year.

Mr. Hall's report asserts the evidence of 1929 play was overwhelmingly in favor of the new fumble rule which prevents the opposing side from running with a recovered fumble of any kind.

If anything, the committee may discuss extending it, proposals already having been made by some coaches that the rule be applied in principle to prevent running with intercepted forward passes, also to prevent an attacking side from advancing its own fumble.

Mr. Hall's report, in summing up the case for the new regulation, emphasizes that it accomplished the main purpose of broadening and strengthening the strategy of the attack by inviting freer use of the backward or lateral pass, that it simplified the rules and, finally, reduced to a minimum the number of games won by a fumble and the neutralizing of an earned touchdown by one that is unearned.

"The two principal criticisms of the fumble rule are that it would tend to promote fumble and that it would take away from the thrills of the game," said Mr. Hall. "The first of these is absurd, for the loss of possession of the ball is in itself a serious enough penalty to prevent carelessness. As to the criticism that the rule deprives the spectator of one of the great thrills of the game it might be appropriate to again state the fact that the rules committee has always proceeded on the theory that the game is primarily to provide wholesome sport for the hundreds of thousands of boys who play rather than to provide thrills for the tens of millions of those who watch them play. Whatever thrills may have been removed from the game by the fumble rule will in the next few years be replaced many times over by the more legitimate thrills that will inevitably come with the gradual development of more daring handling and passing of the ball."

Mr. Hall's report declares that the other two important changes in the 1929 rules, aimed at the screened pass and the so-called "bottleball" convincingly accomplished their object.

"The bottleball has disappeared," says the report. "The officials and coaches have cooperated in making effective the revised wording of the rule prohibiting the screening of the forward pass and the delayed pass, and the game has gone permanently into the discard."

An increase in the number of goals from the field, even with the "goal" posts moved back ten yards from the goal line and all-around improvement in the kicking department, was noted by the rules chairman. He indicated there is no disposition on the part of the rules-makers to consider restoring the posts to the goal-line.

LES CANADIENS LEAD CANUCK HOCKEY LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Les Canadiens of Montreal always have been known as one of the greatest groups of "money players" in the National Hockey league but they never have given better proof of it than they did by beating the Chicago Blackhawks, 3 to 2, last night.

At stake was first place in the Canadian group for the Canadiens and second in the American division for Chicago. A beautiful bit of stickhandling by Silvio Mantha, the Canadian defense star, scored the winning goal after 20 seconds of overtime play. He carried the puck almost the length of the rink.

The victory put Les Canadiens a point ahead of their rival Montreal Maroons, who lost to Toronto, 3-2. The Boston Bruins captured the league record of eleven consecutive victories by beating the New York Americans, 5 to 2.

Tonight the Americans play the New York Rangers, Los Angeles clash with Detroit and Ottawa meets Pittsburgh.

National League Fielding Dropped During Last Year

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK.—Lack of effective pitching is the constant complaint of big league managers, but along with that during the 1929 season, there was a downward trend in the fielding averages in the National league, with its consequent effect on pitching.

Most of the managers believe that the art of pitching has been forgotten by all except a few, and that it isn't understood by 90 per cent of the newcomers.

Of course, the National League pitchers have a comeback. The official records of that league show that only ordinary support was given to pitchers, compared with preceding seasons. It is a baseball maxim that pitching success increases with expert fielding.

In 1929 Frank Hurst and George Sisler were the only first basemen to play 154 games. Bill Terry of New York was five short and Sherry Taylor of Boston was short of the schedule total. Sherry had a fine fielding record with a percentage of .996. Hurst of Philadelphia was better.

KING TUT BEATS BILLY WALLACE AT MILWAUKEE

Cleveland Boxer no Match for Swinging Milwaukee Batter

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2.—King Tut of Milwaukee, a rough young aspirant for the lightweight championship, defeated Billy Wallace, Cleveland challenger, in the eighth round of their scheduled ten-round fight Wednesday afternoon by a technical knockout.

Wallace, twice floored for counts of nine and twice knocked staggering across the ring, was unable to respond at the start of the eighth. He claimed he injured his back when Tut wrestled him out of the ring in the fifth round. Wallace fell through the middle rope, his back striking the edge of the ring. He was given a short rest, and managed to continue until the finish of the seventh.

Regardless of the injury, the Cleveland lightweight, once rated as the most dangerous hitter in the division, was no match for the wild-swinging Minneapolis puncher. Tut knocked Wallace down with a heavy right to the jaw in the first round, staggered with a short right to the chin in the second, made his knees wobble with another right in the fourth and floored him for another count with a hard right to the heart in the sixth.

Wallace was unable to keep the ever-charging Tut at a safe distance. Tut cornered him continually, forcing him all over the ring, and dealt out terrific body punishment at close range. Wallace tried to box him, but got nowhere, and was on the receiving end from start to finish. Tut, taking every round, won by a technical knockout.

Wallace spotted Tut 4-1-4 pounds. He scaled 133 1/2 with Tut tipping the beam at 137 1/2. The match drew $500.

Larry Brignola of Boston stopped Tony Mandell, Rockford, Ill., welterweight, in the third round.

ILLINOIS QUINTET MEETS BUTLER "5"

Capt. Doug Mills Expects to Remain on Bench Until Saturday

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Coach Craig Kirby's inexperienced Illinois basketball team meets the powerful Butler five tonight at Indianapolis in the final pre-conference season game.

Although Kirby has experimented with his lineup, the Illini have taken two out of their three previous contests, and are hopeful of downing the team that defeated Purdue two weeks ago. Captain Doug Mills, whom illness has kept out of the lineup, probably will spend one more night on the bench while his mates battle Butler, but may get into the opening conference contest against Ohio State at Champion Monday night.

Charlie "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue, the basketball star, was defeated 35 to 33 by Montana State. Murphy was high point man with six field goals and three free throws, but the Bobcats unleashed a swift drive late in the game to come from behind for a victory.

Ohio State also took a beating, its second in two nights, when Pennsylvania scored a 21 to 25 division at Philadelphia. The victory gave Penn a two to one edge over Western Conference opponents, having beaten Indiana and lost to Michigan.

PURDUE FIVE LOSES TO MONTANA STATE

Lafayette, Ind. — Purdue's basketball team, which finished a second place in the Big Ten conference, lost to Montana State, 35 to 33, after holding the lead for most of the game.

ter than Sisler, the former accepting 1,621 chances. The record is 1,985.

Hughie Critz led the second basemen. He played in 106 games, 98 short of a complete season. Rogers Hornsby was the only second baseman to play the full schedule—150 games. He accepted 835 chances. Frankie Frisch holds the record with 1,057. Some difference. Every time that a second baseman makes a better than ordinary record he is likely to cut off base hits because he is over on the right side of the field where the ball bounds safely.

Whitney of Philadelphia played third in 154 games. His total of chances was 991. The record for a third baseman is exactly one hundred more—1,091. Whitney, however, had a better record than the ordinary third baseman. The third baseman who begins to climb over the wall usually covering a great deal of ground.

No shortstop played in 154 games. Travis Johnson of New York was nearest to that total with 149 games, and he accepted 551 chances. The record for shortstops is 934. Jackson led the National league and was easily the best of the year in his district.

The catchers of the National league "fell down" amazingly on chances accepted. One reason why they did so was because of the few games that they played. Another reason and a very important one was lack of strikeout kings on certain teams. Walter Larian of Philadelphia lost his life under a truck.

He played in more games than any other catcher except Wilson of St. Louis, yet he accepted only 449 chances in 103 contests. That average was not much better than three put outs to a game. The record for a season is 547 made by George Gibson once with Pittsburgh.

Frank O'Doul was the only outfielder of the National league to play in 154 games and his field percentage was .971. He accepted 671 chances. Taylor, Douhit of St. Louis holds the record with .977. Douhit played all of the games in 1929 to make that record.

O'Doul wasn't within miles of Douhit, yet he batted very cleverly in some games. He was not rated as a great outfielder, but improved during the season.

MARQUETTE WINS FROM NODAK AGGIES

Hilltoppers Guilty of Miscues Although They Hold 26-17 Advantage

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2.—Having failed to win from Montana State, Marquette last night did the next best thing by defeating their next-door neighbors, North Dakota State.

The score was 26 to 17, and the game was a slow and uninteresting one, with Marquette misplays robbing it of much of the excitement. The Hilltoppers missed many opportunities to score during the first half, and led as it ended by only two points. A tight defense, however, had robbed the Bison of a chance to sweep into the lead.

In the second half, Marquette began to find the range and amassed a sufficiently imposing lead to overawe the Dakotas.

SEEK TO STRENGTHEN PIRATE HOCKEY CLUB

Pittsburgh, Jan. 2.—In an effort to strengthen their crippled hockey team the management of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National league has begun negotiations with a Detroit club for Jimmy Beckley, a speedy center, now playing for the London Grays, of the English national league.

The Pirates' defense with the New York Yankees has been sent here to finish the season.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
JIMMY BRADDOCK has been all for several months, and underwent two minor operations during that time. But continued to fight. Promoters of indoor track meets in New York say there ought to be more fighters coming to make it.

PITT'S PANTHERS WALLOPED BY U. S. C. TROJANS, 47 TO 14

Eastern Eleven No Match for Powerful Californians Wednesday

BY PAUL B. ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2.—Frustrated with a decisive 47 to 14 trouncing handed them as a New Year's day greeting by the mighty Trojans of the University of Southern California, Pittsburg's grid squad today prepared to return to its native land, victim of the most decisive defeat ever meted out in the 14 years of tournament of roses competition.

The Golden Pits Panthers, who had their hearts into the turf of the Pasadena stadium yesterday, went on to reversing a 7 to 9 beating administered in 1925 by Stanford, left the arena bowed in their first defeat of the season because they could not solve the puzzling South in California passing attack.

Beginning with the initial touchdown, which came only a few moments after 700,000 persons had filled the stadium, the men of Troy found scoring possible in four of their set-backs. The Trojans' passing attack, a fifth century was indirectly the result of a long pass and the others were the result of plunging, driving football.

The Panthers, with a quartet of All-Americans in the lineup, saw the glory of individual performance stolen from them in a group of U. S. C. gridgers who scattered the famed Pitt defense.

Troy Luman, one of these All-Americans, captured the title with a dazzling 68-yard run in the first play following the opening kickoff, but that Russell Sanders, U. S. C. safety man, cut him down from behind, 15 yards short of the goal.

Then, when the Panthers had failed to crack the Trojan line for the necessary yardage, the touchdown parade for the Pacific coast representatives started. Sanders' pass to Harry Edelson, caught and the Troy halfback scored.

Before the first quarter had ended Sanders repeated, this time placing a long toss within reach of the racing Ernie Pinckert. Edelson's mate at high half, and U. S. C. scored again.

Satisfied with their aerial thrusts, the Trojans reverted to straight football, with Marshall Duffield skirting the Panther end for a touchdown after a fumble had been recovered on the 13-yard line. Again, before the half ended, point earning was marked by Duffield, after his pass to Jess Mortenson had placed the ball within the shadow of their opponent's goal.

Trailing 26 to 9 as they went into the second half, the Panthers mustered a rally, going to the air for a pair of touchdowns.

Carsa's pass to Bill Walling and Harold Williams' flip to Paul Fier, two of four touchdowns in 19 attempts, were responsible for the eastern eleven's points. These came in the third and fourth periods.

WESTERNERS PRAISE JACK CANNON, GLASSBORO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—Western football enthusiasts were again the prizes of Jack Cannon, Notre Dame guard, Glassboro, Iowa halfback and a host of other eastern performers today as they participated for the first time in the annual "Pitman" set-up, a 19 to 7 score yesterday by an all-star team.

The decisiveness of the triumph left spectators at the contest bewildered. The east scored its first touchdown in the opening quarter, on a 15-yard pass, added another in the second, and completed its scoring by means of two field goals by Paul Fier, of Chicago.

The western team, composed of the best players from 15 schools, scored a touchdown after a march down the field.

Barnard Expects A. L. To Set The Pace In Majors

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—New York Yankees manager, George Barnard, expects the American league review for the season. However, as I was not actually correct in my forecast, a year ago, it may be safe to recall my predictions of last New Year's day.

Naturally, I cannot but express my satisfaction over the result of the world series in which the Athletics

VIKING CAGERS TO MEET M. U. SATURDAY

Hilltoppers Have Strongest Team in Years; Beat Nodaks Wednesday

LAWRENCE college basketball team, Thursday will return to the court to spend two days hard drill before meeting Marquette university five on the latter's floor in Milwaukee. Saturday evening, The Vikings resumed practice Monday after a week's lay-off over the Christmas holidays.

Marquette found by another victory, by capturing the title by defeating North Dakota State and now leading one of the "strongest" quintets of the Lawrence's history. The Hilltoppers this year are under direction of Coach Carl Lyle, who has developed a team that is a force.

Appleton boys who are freshmen at Lawrence and several others, former members of the local high school basketball team have been forming a nucleus for the Vikings during the winter months.

By making that Marquette has a strong team, the Vikings are in a drilling line, and on a former list of the week of the past year, and attention to the fact that the team is all set for the season.

The winter for the boys is impressive on paper with a string of victories in the past few weeks, and the team is all set for the season.

The Rocky Mountain team, led by only a narrow margin, played their first game, and they are all set for the season.

The Boston Red Sox have made a few changes which should make them a better ball club. They already have one of the best pitching staffs in the country. If they develop more of a team, they are going to prove themselves to be a force.

MILLER CORDS TO OPEN PRO SEASON HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Play Kimberly-Clark Team at Armory G; Have Scheduled Kohler

APPLETON will get its first view of professional basketball Tuesday evening Jan. 7, when the Miller Cords of Appleton meet the Kimberly-Clark team of Kimberly in Armory G.

Assembling a lineup that shows three former Lawrence college players, all members of the state and midwest teams, the Cords look as impressive as any pro or semi pro team in this section. They beat Wisconsin last night, a few nights ago at the Armory, an accomplishment any time.

The former Lawrence men on the team are Mike Kotal, guard, Jake Ziesemer, forward, and Roger Ashman, center. Another former Viking, Artie Hillman, but he came to Lawrence after the title team has been broken up. However, Hillman plays well with the other men and might have been an all-star player had he remained in school.

Remaining members of the Cord team which is being sponsored by the Appleton Tree Shop are Elmer Dunn, from high school championship days away last year, and Milton Schaefer, who starred at Oshkosh, and who is a fine player and who is an all-around pro and semi-pro basketball.

The opening game will be a sort of pre-game for the team, and will be no contest between the Cords and the K. C. The players of the team will be in the Armory at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday night and that will be the first game of the season.

Tuesday's game will be the first effort in several years to stage a pro game here. If it is successful the Cords plan to bring Kohler Recreation here on Jan. 14 and the Lamco's of Buffalo on Jan. 21.

REBHOLTZ STARS IN CHARITY GRID GAME

Former Wisconsin Back Helps Southwest Beat Southerners, 25-12

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 2.—"Power" Rebholtz, as played by an all-star aggregation of midwest players, held a decisive 25 to 12 victory today over the aerial system of Southern teams as presented by the Southerners yesterday in the annual Dixie classic.

Fifteen thousand fans watched a group of young stars from the north, backed by the redoubtable "Pete" Welch of Purdue, shatter a southern team all-star line to pieces and effectively muss up almost every southern attempt to take to the air.

Near the close of the second half the Southern team utilized a pass to the score at 14-4, but thereafter were distinctly outplayed.

Rebholtz, of Wisconsin, and Young of Detroit scored twice each for the midwest, Young counting on passes from Welch and Hillman of Ohio. A 4 of Arkansas made the southwest's two failures on passes from the hands of Texas Carlson.

Basketball, Armory, Tues., Jan. 7th. SEE Eddie Kotal and the boys in action.

The Secret of Mohawk Pond

INTRODUCTION

Heavy clouds, massed toward the northwest, deepened the blackness of the May night and brought added concern to Peggy Prescott as she drove her car along the rough country road leading from Milton to East Cornwall.

It was her first motor trip through that part of Connecticut and the mountain scenery from Danbury northward had made her forgetful of the hours she had spent behind the steering in her frantic haste to reach her destination.

She did not need to refer to a clause in her uncle's will, a memorandum of which reposed in her suitcase, to remember the conditions attached to her inheritance of his not inconsiderable fortune.

... provided the said Margaret Prescott take up her residence in Yew Lodge on the banks of Mohawk Pond, Litchfield county, Connecticut, between the hours of 1 a. m. and midnight of the 16th day of May, following my death, with but her servants and her personal effects; to come only by motor, and to remain at Yew Lodge for a day and a month, never absconding herself therefrom for more than one hour during either the day or the night within that specified period of time.

"If the conditions herein set forth are not carried out to the letter, all bequests to the said Margaret Prescott are to go instead to my deceased wife's nephew, Jamieson Sinclair, Lieutenant-commander, United States Navy."

Nocturnal of the probate of her uncle's will and its contents so far as it concerned her, reached Peggy in San Francisco on the eve of her sailing for Manila to join her father and mother, Col. and Mrs. John Prescott. She promptly canceled her passage on the army transport and, with her mother's colored maid, Julia, caught the first train east.

Met on her arrival in New York that morning of May 15 by the executor of Herbert Prescott's will, she had been provided with a five passenger coupe that she might comply with her uncle's stipulation that she "come only by motor" to Yew Lodge.

As the shadows deepened, she approached her future home.

The headlights played on the front door when her high heels slipped on the polished floor. Her out-flung hand reached the wall, thereby saving a nasty fall.

Accidentally her fingers pressed an electric wall button and several lights went on in front of her and she saw that she faced a dining room.

The table was set for four persons. The chair at the head of the table was drawn back and the figure waited respectfully for her to occupy it. Peggy sat down. Pointing to a tall goblet by her plate, she glanced up.

"Water, please," she said, and caught a glimpse of swarthy skin and glowing eyes before the figure withdrew.

A second later a large silver soup tureen was placed in front of her. "Miss Peggy, what is yo?" Julia's hail came from the living room.

"I am waiting for dinner."

And at the words Julia's comely yellow face brightened.

"Go out in the kitchen, Julia, and ask Uncle Herbert's servant where the garage is located and I will drive the car around there."

Julia started with alacrity for the door to which her mistress pointed. "Miss Peggy, dear, that ain't no light," then, as a surmised ejaculation escaped Peggy: "Come an' see to yo'self, honey."

LONDON TOYS MIRROR OF WORLD PROGRESS

London - (AP) - A toyland reflection of this modern world with its airplanes, huge bridges, modern art, and its general speed is opening up all over London in preparation for Christmas.

Shop windows are filled with the most amazing things. Hungry-eyed youngsters are dragging parents to the toy departments to get in early orders.

When the little antique man turns fifty somebodies with no visible means of propulsion some of the juvenile onlookers are frankly distrustful, some are properly amazed and some are just plain bored.

There are huge airplanes and zeppelins modeled on the lines of this season's giants of the air. There are toy automobiles almost as big as the "baby" models that parents drive about London in the fond belief they are being very adult.

And in keeping with the move toward world disarmament, there is a notable decline in the size of popguns. Toy department managers report there has been a definite reduction in the demand for instruments of warfare. There are practically no cannons, comparatively few tin soldiers, and only an occasional rifle "for hunting."

GERMAN LAUDS SPIRIT IN AMERICAN AVIATION

Berlin - (AP) - Otto J. Merkel, director of the Lufthansa, marvels at the private American aviation development and attributes it to a knack for organizing public opinion.

The head of the German airways corporation contrasted the 500 planes owned privately in Europe with 7,000 in America.

"Our way of organizing public opinion in matters of air service seems to me far superior to anything we have in Europe," Merkel observed.

"When I see Henry Ford publishing whole page advertisements weekly, extolling the flying man and visualizing our aerial future, well, I wish we had a Mr. Ford."

And when I see Mr. Guggenheim donating $2,500,000 to the Guggenheim foundation with a deed outlining the wishes of this maelstrom of aviation for furthering air service national and international, well, I wish we had a Mr. Guggenheim."

FIVE REPUBLICANS

Congressman Would Pass
Law to Force Fights into

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Five Republicans are conferring for the seats of five Democrats in the House and the probability is that some of them would not have bothered to make a contest if they had not counted on support from the large Republican majority.

Under the law, a Republican would have to fight a Democrat for the seat of a Democrat in the House. The law is now being considered by the House and the Senate.

Morgan Yacht To Be Used
For Making Ocean Survey

Washington—(AP)—J. Pierpont Morgan has presented his palatial private yacht the Corsair, to the government for the use of the Coast and Geodetic Survey in making studies of the Continental Shelf extending beyond the Atlantic and Gulf coast lines.

Arrangements were made to complete the transfer with simple formalities today at Tebo's basin, New York, with Captain F. L. Peacock taking command for the Coast and Geodetic Survey. The ceremonies included changing the name of the vessel to the Oceanographer.

The work in which it will be used consists of recharting the entire Atlantic and Gulf seaboard. One vessel, the Lydonia, is already engaged in this task and a second, the Hydrographer, recently launched at Newport, is also to take part in the work.

Mr. Morgan rendered the vessel to the government during the war when it was used as a naval auxiliary, reverting to his possession at the close of hostilities. The only stipulation attached to the present gift is that it shall never be disposed of by the government except by scrapping.

The commerce department, in acknowledgment of the gift, said it was entirely fitting that the Corsair, a veteran of many years of cruising, should end her days in helping men explore the depths of the waters over which it had passed many times.

The vessel is of 1,156 gross tons and was built in 1892. It was the first of its kind in the world. It was built by the famous shipyard of the time.

Vincent L. Palmisano of Baltimore is defending his seat against former Congressman John Philip Hill, the famous wet. Hill polled 330 votes less of these men claims to be better than the other, which is pretty wet.

Then there's the case of former Congressman Harry M. Wurnbach, against Congressman Augustus McCloskey of San Antonio. McCloskey skunk through by 300 votes and Wurnbach alleges fraud in manipulation of the returns in Texas county. It has been pretty well established that someone monkeyed with the returns, but Wurnbach's election remains to be proved.

The other contest is that of Henry P. Lawrence Congressman Jacob L. Milligan of the third Missouri district, who was returned by the majority of 20 votes. Lawrence claims errors in the count. He took his case to the Missouri supreme court, claiming that several judges had failed to sign poll books, and that those precincts should be thrown out, but the court decided that voters should not be disenfranchised because of the carelessness of a few judges.

All these cases now rest with the House elections committee, which will hold oral hearings if necessary, and later report to the House.

"GOLD DIGGERS OF BROADWAY"

The "28ers versus the 40ers!" The bearded miners of the California gold rush days of 1849 were more pikers compared to the finely feathered feminine Broadway gold diggers of 1929 with their charms, their wiles and their ability to get pay dirt from the most forbidding prospects, brought forth in "Gold Diggers of Broadway."

Warner Bros. and Vitaphone two per cent natural color, singing, dancing, dancing picture in technicolor, which starts at the Brin, Theatre today.

A glittering and spectacular comedy of Broadway's chorus girls on and off stage, the gold diggers in the picture, impersonate miners of both periods. On the stage, in which they appear in an elaborate show within a show, the lovely ladies appear as "Follies" girls in the attire of gold rush days, singing and dancing to the tune of "The Song of the Gold Diggers," one of the many songs written by Al Jolson and Joe Young, which is the story of a girl who is a gold digger.

After their hours they become real gold miners and pursue their mining activities, to the accompaniment of big band and rag music, college boys and millionaires' sons.

The ways in which they "dig" their boy friends for shiny nuggets form many of the comedy situations in this brilliant extravaganza.

Talks To Parents

A DOLLAR AN HOUR
By Alice Judson Pease
Carl and Gilbert are both children of well to do parents, but their respective attitudes toward earning money offer striking illustrations of wise and unwise training.

Both boys were asked to do different things to earn money for a gift. Carl was asked to do a job that would give him a steady income, while Gilbert was asked to do a job that would give him a large sum of money at once.

Carl responded eagerly to the proposition of earning $1 an hour. A dollar an hour! Three dollars earned in a morning! He was sure that he could do it. He was sure that he could do it.

MANY MORE MERGERS ARE PREDICTED IN FIRST HALF OF YEAR

Consolidations Now Are Matter of Economics, It Is Pointed Out

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(AP)—(F)
Financial review and outlook—Developments in the last few weeks point strongly to another active period of consolidations during the first half of 1930.

These will be most prominent among public utility companies, iron and steel manufacturers, investment trusts and trading corporations, aviation and amusement companies, interior banks and depending on the attitude of congress, with the railroads.

The recent amalgamation of a group of iron and steel parties in the middle west by the Eaton interests, the proposed merger of the Standard Steel Car and Osgood Bradley Car companies with the Pullman company announced Saturday and the new relationships just established by Standard Gas & Electric and suggested for the Associated Gas and Electric properties are evidences of the momentum this movement has already gained.

There is a difference, however, between the motive for consolidations today and those that were almost daily features in financial news in the earlier part of the year.

The latter were frequently found to be profitable for the promoters in that they provided new securities of the sort that the public was then eager to buy. Criticism has been made particularly of bank mergers that appeared to have little justification except to offer opportunity for broader speculation in the stocks of the institutions concerned. The same has been true of the unification of public utility holding companies which were projected and carried out on a grand scale and later played a part in the inflation of public utility securities. It is of interest to read a section of the recent interstate commerce commission plan for railroad consolidation in which one of the commissioners frankly expressed the view that the only persons concerned in this were the financial interests who "are likely to reap large profits from the mere process of putting the roads together." Possibly this member of the commission had in mind the personal gains one of the promoters of the southwestern group was alleged to have made out of this transaction.

MERGE FOR ECONOMIES
Future consolidations, however, will grow out of the necessity for meeting unfavorable business conditions with the economies and greater efficiency that mergers of competitive concerns provide. The present conditions in the aviation industry and in the amusement field furnish many opportunities for bringing together under one control properties that have spread out too rapidly and have exhausted themselves by too rapid growth and at the same time have had too little nourishment in the way of net earnings.

They are now going through the same trials that in previous years led to the weeding out of the weak members in the automobile industry and the formation of a few strong trade units.

The same conditions apply to the trading of finance companies which had a mushroom growth prior to the stock market panic. This has left numerous small companies in a weakened position where they are willing to turn over their assets to older and stronger organizations in the same field. It is expected there

Near Death

Veteran of many battles for labor.
"Mother" Jones, 93, is near death at Hyattsville, Md. She was born in Cork, Ireland, in 1839, came to this country as a girl, and in 1861 married George Jones of Memphis, Tenn. Left a widow seven years later, she devoted the remainder of her life to fighting labor's battles, and was arrested many times.

will be a very pronounced reduction in the number of these corporations before the end of 1930.

Economic conditions are also believed to be operating toward the merger of oil producing and refining companies where the elements of overproduction of crude oil and intense competition with foreign companies require greater coordination among the leading units in the American field.

Some of the consolidations now being considered are the direct effect of the transfer of control of stock holdings that took place when the market was in its panicky state in October and November. Interest at that time that were carrying more of their own stock than they could protect awake later to find that other interests with abundant resources had relieved them of a sufficient amount of stock to jeopardize their majority interest.
So they have found it convenient to accept terms for consolidation which they had not the remotest idea of considering a few months ago. Instances of this have been reported in the public utility industry, in the amusement field and with some of the smaller manufacturing companies and in the affairs of finance corporations.

Hortonville Event Is Expect-

T. J. Pattison, Durand farmer, will act as conductor of the two-day farm institute at Hortonville Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 7 and 8 according to Gus Sell, county agent. The institute is being staged jointly by the Hortonville Commercial club and the county and state farm departments.

Other speakers on the two day program include L. F. Graber of the state college of agriculture; H. M.
Knipfel of the state department of markets; and Mr. Sell.

"Conductor Pattison is one of the best farmers in Pepin-co. He is a leader in all of the worthwhile enterprises which help his community," said A. H. Cole, assistant state superintendent of institutions.

"The home talent program being prepared for the evening promises to be especially interesting," announces Malachi Ryan, local chairman.

Each session of the institute is brief and to the point. After each speaker has finished the meeting is turned into an open forum in which questions may be asked and experiences exchanged.

"A special attempt is being made to secure a big attendance of farm women this year. Many of the oper-

COUNTY WILL SUPPLY INFORMATION ON ROADS

A supply of blank cards for reporting road conditions during the winter months have been received by the Outagamie-co highway department from the state highway department. Each county in the state is asked to make regular weekly reports on all roads within its borders;
the amount of snow that fell; whether there are any roads closed;
when they will be open; and what condition the roads are in generally.
These reports will be the basis on which the state department will make a weekly report on roads throughout the state for convenience of motorists who must do winter traveling.

things. He has trained a wildcat to wolves to fear sheep; doves to be-
